

Mr. Speaker Raps Premier

Ferry Halt 'Boorish'

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — William Murray, Social Credit MLA for Prince Rupert, says Premier Bennett displayed a boorish attitude in tying up the ferry Queen of Prince Rupert for the winter.

Mr. Murray, also Speaker of the legislature, said he regretted a dispute between the premier and Alaska Governor Walter Hickel over the Prince Rupert-Kelsey Bay British Columbia service.

"It did very little from a public relations standpoint between B.C. and Alaska," he told a service club here.

Alaska subsequently initiated its own ferry service

south when Mr. Bennett announced the B.C. service would not resume until March 28.

The Alaska service runs to Seattle.

The B.C. ferry was damaged when it ran aground in fog near Alert Bay last August.

"Despite the boorish attitude taken by the premier in refusing to put the Queen back into service... the main concern now is to concentrate on future transportation needs of the area," Mr. Murray said.

He called for lower winter fares on ferries, joint ferry travel promotion with Alaska, and a speedup in building highway links in northern areas of the province to develop year-round coastal ferry traffic.

Iranian Wrestlers

Eight Emulate Champ's Death

TEHRAN (AP) — Eight Iranian wrestlers were reported to have killed themselves this week in a wave of suicides following the death of world champion Gholam-Rexa Takhti, 37, who committed suicide Monday.

The coroner's office confirmed the eight deaths but released only one name—Parviz Moafi, who took an overdose of sleeping pills Tuesday.

Three young wrestlers died Wednesday, leaving notes saying they "could not stand the death of their idol." The Iranian press did not print details, but the new suicides apparently were not world champions.

Wrestlers from the U.S., Soviet Union, Japan, Turkey, Bulgaria and other nations are taking part in a competition here.

'Radical' Hellyer Running

By RON COLASTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Paul Hellyer, the stormy architect of armed forces unification, is seeking the leadership of the Liberal party. (See also Page 12).

Hellyer, 44, threw his hat into the ring at a news conference here Thursday, before heading towards Toronto and the formal, noisy kickoff of the campaign.

GENUINE ARTICLE

He called himself a genuine reformer, more radical than most people believed, and expressed confidence about the outcome.

He also admitted that unification of the armed forces has left its scars.

As he entered the race, one of the three top contenders, he dangled a few plump carrots before the provinces, which will do him no harm politically.

RADICAL VIEW

For example, he urged the government to look at the provincial point of view on medicare.

This is considered political heresy here. The government, through Prime Minister Pearson and at least two of Hellyer's rivals, Finance Minister Mitchell and Minister of National Revenue JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two rapid-transit commuter trains collided at the start of the evening rush hour Thursday, injuring about 200 persons and delaying thousands more.

There were no reports of deaths, but five of the injured were regarded as critically hurt.

Injured jammed the basement emergency room at the Jersey City Medical Centre. Twenty-eight extra doctors were called in to help two regular physicians treat the injured.

MOST RELEASED

Dr. Clifford Blas, director of emergency facilities, estimated that more than 200 injured were brought in. Most were released after examination and treatment.

The hospital administrator, Theodore Austin, said 50 stretcher cases were brought in. These were carried in near-zero weather along snow-covered tracks for 300 yards.

SERVICE DISRUPTED

The accident halted service for an hour on the line, which hauls 100,000 commuters a day between New York and New Jersey. Commuters who normally ride the electric cars to connect with the other trains and buses at Jersey City and Newark were forced to wait for service to resume or seek alternate means of transportation.

About 100 policemen, firemen and ambulance workers were called to the scene to help free trapped passengers.

Many of the casualties were covered with blood. Many walked to receive treatment.

Oil from Hulk Killing Gulls

CAMPBELL RIVER—Divers are worried that bunkers of the sunken Dutch freighter Schiedyk may explode, swamping the channel near Gold River with oil. Already seagulls are reported dying after their wings have been dipped in the oil slick.

Divers Thursday estimated the bunker oil is escaping into the water at the rate of about two gallons a minute.

U.S. attache Metzger, Canadian Jefferson

Poles Apprehend Canadian Officer

WARSAW (CP-AP) — The Polish government charged Thursday that army attaches from the Canadian and United States embassies were caught

"carrying out intelligence activities." The American was ordered to leave the country. The two are Lt.-Col. Kenneth I. Jefferson, 43, a native of Regina named to the Warsaw post last August, and Lt.-Col. Edward H. Metzger, 42, of Quincy, Mass., ordered to leave Poland before Jan. 16.

The Polish accusation, carried by the official press agency PAF, said the "unauthorized activities" of Jefferson were brought "firmly" to the attention of the Canadian embassy and "further consequences are under consideration." As of now, he has not been ordered out of Poland.

U.S. PROTESTS

A U.S. embassy statement said the U.S. government, here and in Washington, protested what it described as a "flagrant violation of the immunity of an American diplomatic officer."

A Canadian embassy spokesman said Jefferson went on leave last Sunday, travelling with his wife and daughter to England to take the daughter to a British school. The spokesman

MP Charges 'Politics'

WEST YARDS LOSE AGAIN

By DON GAIN

Ottawa is still awarding contracts to East Coast shipyards but there aren't any government orders for West Coast yards, George Chatterton said Thursday.

Chatterton

The Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich said he had just received word that a contract for the refits of HMCS Skeena and Restigouche was awarded St. John Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. Ltd. in St. John, N.B., at a cost of $886,500.

When tenders were called for conversion of the destroyer-escort HMCS Chaudiere and Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd. of North Vancouver was low bidder at $4,500,000, the work was deferred, he said.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE

"When it comes to jobs for the East Coast, there is no deferment," he said. "It's just another example of how West Coast shipyards are treated compared to the east."

The Esquimalt-Saanich member accused the federal government of deliberately causing unemployment here to counter inflation, "which the government was largely instrumental in creating."

He said political consideration was a major factor.

"The present government has its political base in the east, and this is what happens. They've got to maintain that base."

TIME TO SPEAK

Neil Hindle, business agent of the boilermakers' union, local 191, said it was time Mr. Chatterton spoke up.

"Both he and (Victoria Liberal MP David) Groos have been as quiet as mice about this situation," he said.

"I think they've been apathetic," Mr. Hindle continued. "I've had 366 people unemployed for the past three months. It's the government's policy to put people on welfare to help the economy."

GOING BEHIND

"Under Diefenbaker, shipbuilding took a surge ahead, but under the Liberals it's going behind. Certainly there are political considerations in their giving orders in Eastern Canada."

Mr. Chatterton noted proposed shipbuilding which was deferred by the Liberal government — the $6,000,000 replacement for the hulk-tender Estevan; five Coast Guard cutters, two of which were to have been built on the West Coast; three conversion jobs on destroyer escorts.

ALL DEFERRED
"They've all been deferred," he said, "and the Coast Guard cutters weren't deferred until one contract had been let to Davie Shipbuilding in Lauzon, Que."

He said the Chaudiere contract would have provided jobs for about 250 men for 14 months.

SOONER OR LATER

"But they deferred it. It's got to be done sooner or later, and right now, with unemployment at 6.3 per cent, one of the highest in Canada, you'd think this would be a major consideration for any government."

"There were more than 2,500 people working in the shipyards

CIA Link Claimed At Trial

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet prosecutor Gennadi Terekhov Thursday demanded a total of 15 years in prison for four young dissidents accused of co-operating with an outlawed anti-Soviet organization which allegedly received funds from the CIA.

The four Russians are accused of "deliberately" co-operating with the National Alliance of Russian Solidarists, an anti-Communist group outlawed in the Soviet Union. The Kremlin claims the group is dedicated to overthrowing the Soviet government and that it is CIA-subsidized.

Hearings Bid Fails

Labor Clashes With Peterson

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

Leaders of the B.C. Federation of Labor clashed with Labor Minister Peterson Thursday over whether legislative committee hearings should be held on proposed law changes affecting trade unions.

E. T. Staley, president of the 136,000-member body, said federation representatives asked the cabinet for an opportunity to present specific changes to three major pieces of legislation — Trade Unions Act (Bill 43), Labor Relations Act and Workmen's Compensation Act.

This should be done before the legislative committee on labor matters, Mr. Staley urged, so that both labor and management could present their views and debate the points raised.

"Mr. Peterson took strong exception to what he assumed was an attempt to bypass his department — we got into quite an argument over this point," Mr. Staley said later.

LAST SESSION
Federation secretary-treasurer Ray Haynes said the minister "gave every indication" the government intended to proceed with the new Workmen's Compensation Act introduced last session but deferred for a 12-month study.

"He impressed upon us the need to present our proposals to the department at once," said Mr. Haynes. "This leaves us in a very poor position. For instance, the employers have made a presentation already. We didn't

Paris Warns Neighbors

PARIS (AP) — Premier Georges Pompidou said Thursday night that if France's Common Market partners balk at applying agriculture regulations favorable to France, the French could wreck the economic community.

"If our partners did not want to apply the rules on agriculture it is very evident that we would be heading for a very grave crisis in the community and perhaps rupture," Pompidou said.

SIX DAYS LATER

Hoffman was charged Aug. 21, six days after James Peterson, 41, his wife Evelyn, 42, and seven of their children were shot in their farm home. He was charged only in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson.

Hoffman, who had been released from a mental institution about three weeks before the slayings, showed no emotion when the all-male jury announced its verdict after deliberating 3½ hours and Mr. Justice MacPherson ordered his committal.

Mr. Justice MacPherson told the Queen's Bench Court jury there "is no real conflict of evidence" and the jury "is not concerned with the credibility of witnesses."

Idled Hangman Calls Penalty Change Foolishness

'Sometimes We Chat' at Gallows

By SCOTT BUTTON

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government's decision to abolish the death penalty except for the murder of a policeman or prison guard doesn't sit well with the official executioner.

"It's all foolishness," the hangman said Thursday.

The hangman, whose identity is a closely-guarded secret, said in an interview with The Canadian Press from an undisclosed location that he is a firm believer in capital punishment.

He said his occupation does not lead to insomnia because "I believe in it."

Seventeen years ago, he became Canada's only hangman after he was selected by a "late sheriff." He declined to identify the sheriff.

The hangman, who says he is reluctant to give interviews, lives on the border of Ontario and another province.

He is married and has children, but would not say how many.

His family is not aware that he "moonlights" as a hangman because his regular occupation requires travelling and serves as a cover-up. He would not give his other occupation.

He said he was born in Canada even though he spoke with a slight Scottish accent. He said he could not estimate the number of persons he has hanged. He is paid by retainer, not by assignment.

He was asked how much.

"Did I ask you how much you are paid?" he snapped.

He learned his trade from a "previous hangman" and has had thorough training in human anatomy.

His victims die quickly and painlessly, he said. Sometimes the executioner and the condemned chat a little before getting down to business.

"I talk with them about whatever they want to talk about. They must start the conversation."

He will stay on the job "as long as it's required."

Because he is afraid of reprisals he carries a firearm. Childhood friends of a person about to be hanged once attacked him, he said.

A religious man, he said he attends church "quite regular."

In an earlier interview he also vigorously defended capital punishment.

"There are so many people that are unemployed that just don't want to work. I contend that if a man is a born bum, if a capital punishment is abolished, all he has to do is shoot someone in the street. He is sentenced to life with three meals per day in a warm room, and has a bed, and that is more than what a bum wants."

Browser Clicks On Old Flicks

SILENT GEMS: One-time movie projectionist William E. John was browsing about the Palm Variety and Junque Shoppe and came across what could be a collection of valuable film.

In among the clutter of items, he found four cans of movies which he thinks date from around 1914. They are comedies made by Al Christy for Vitaphone Studios, which was later taken over by Warner Bros.

Mr. John says the old films are not safe to project as they are made on cellulose nitrate base which becomes unstable with age, and the sprocket holes are in poor shape.

He has recommended that store owner John James Warwick wire the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in Hollywood describing the films and giving their titles. Bobby Vernon is the star of one of the fun epics.

According to Mr. John, many of these old, 1,000-foot comedies are very rare and some are only known to have been made at one time, with no copies existing. He estimates copies could be made on modern safe film for about 10 cents a foot.

Perhaps the Junque Shoppe has come up with a real find. The films have been in stock for more than five years waiting to be discovered by a Hollywood agent. This time their discoverer is from Victoria West.

QUEBEC PLOT: Even if there is no overt plan to discredit British Columbia in Quebec, something funny is going on.

Former Victorian D. B. C. writes enclosing a clipping from the Montreal Star of Jan. 8. The paper gives the high and low temperatures for Victoria as zero and seven below, while Vancouver is recorded as 41 and 34.

The actual figures recorded here for the day in question were 42 and 35. As the writer comments, "Vancouver is always wetter but never warmer than Victoria."

The Cutlers are now living at St. Bruno, Que.

LIGHTS UP: The Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce will be giving out prizes to Christmas Lighting Contest winners at a banquet Jan. 17.

The award ceremony will be held in conjunction with the Jaycees' general meeting at the Ingraham Hotel. The event in the lower banquet room starts at 6:30 p.m.

WHAT STICKS?: After a rapid tour of Northern Europe and then a holiday in California, what is the most significant lasting impression in the mind of symphony conductor Laszlo Gati?

Could it be the calibre of the Paris Chamber Orchestra, the excitement of conducting a French Canadian work in Europe, a jaunt around Scandinavia? None of these things.

Mr. Gati's biggest thrill was the micro-skirts which have replaced the mini modes among London mods.

The genial Hungarian says the micro-skirt is worn 10 inches above the knee. The newest in glad rags are combined with ankle-length overcoats that look like cast-offs from the Russian revolution.

AWARD NEEDED: If there is an award committee for Victorian-of-the-Year then it should think of handing the scroll to Mrs. B. Levitz-Packford at the Family and Children's Service.

Mrs. Packford is the perennial publicist for abandoned or orphaned children. Her most recent effort will be held Jan. 15 when she has convened a meeting at Spencerhouse, 1851 Cook, to discuss adoption.

PANIC STATIONS: There has been a suggestion around that what Victorians want is a pop concert. The B.C. Telephone Company and the Victoria Symphony Society organized such a concert for Sunday, and row people are staying away in thousands.

So far only 100 tickets have been sold for the event, to be held in the University of Victoria gym. During the concert, five winners of color television sets will be announced and any of the winners who happen to be at the concert will get season tickets for next year.

Intensively, but there is much yet to be learned about it.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you believe my large toenails are greenish, or the skin under them is?—J.G.

Could be. Might be an incipient fungus infection. See a dermatologist. Could be dye from your socks or shoes.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would taking hydrocortisone four times a day over an extended period cause any growth changes in the body such as hands, feet, etc.—L.F.

This would not cause any growth changes. It could cause water retention, however. This could make the extremities or other parts of the body swell, and thus feel "larger." It would not be actual growth; only the puffiness of accumulated fluid in the tissues.

Yards

In Victoria five years ago. Today there are a little over 500."

John Wallace, general manager of Yarrow's Ltd., said his yard's work force was down to 400 men from 1,200 three years ago.

He said it was obvious that the government cutbacks were discriminatory.

"Nothing is being done to offset massive unemployment on the West Coast," he said. "A replacement contract for the Estevan would have been one job that could have aided greatly in keeping together a work force nucleus."

IN LONG RUN

The cutbacks were made in full knowledge that yards here had no forward orders, Mr. Wallace said, whereas in the east, shipyards had orders which could carry them through the next two or three years.

Mr. Chatterton said ships that operate on the West Coast should be built here and then be maintained, refitted and, if necessary converted here.

"In the long run there is a considerable saving, although the initial construction costs might be higher."

"We are a two-ocean country and we must maintain a shipbuilding capacity on the West Coast. We're on the Pacific rim, which has a powerful potential for markets of the future."

ACTION CONFORMS

"Largely because of the government's policy, we have already seen one shipyard fold up, and this conforms exactly with what Mr. (C.M.) Drury said with regard to West Coast shipyards, namely, 'There must be a natural extinction.'"

"The view of the present government is very shortsighted."

Mr. Wallace said the situation put "a terrible onus on us" to keep facilities active and in a viable condition.

WHERE WORK IS

"We can't hold our workers. With unstable employment, they're not going to hang around. Most shipyard workers and trades are capable of doing other work, and they'll have to go where the work is."

"And where does that leave the West Coast shipping industry?"

chell Sharp and Health Minister Allan MacEachen, has recommended the country to medicare on July 1.

MacEachen threatened to resign when medicare was first postponed and presumably is willing to fight for it again. Medicare, therefore, looms as a convention issue.

In another area, too, Hellyer seemed to be disagreeing with his own government.

He said he was willing to sit down and discuss provincial demands that social security programs be switched to them. Ottawa has turned this down.

SECOND ENTRANT

Hellyer is the second important candidate in the race.

Eric Kierans, former president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges and the Quebec provincial Liberals, declared Tuesday.

At his news conference, Hellyer answered questions for an hour and 10 minutes.

He had done his homework and had a carefully-prepared position on every major issue. He pinpointed four major issues facing Canadians: world peace, equality of opportunity for all Canadians, a better quality of urban living and full employment.

RIPST TERRITORY
He said there was no reason for a special status for Quebec or any other province.

His pitch was aimed mainly at the cities.

This, for Hellyer, appears to be the ripest territory.

On the coasts, there may be some lingering animosity for Hellyer over unification.

So the city pitch is left as the best pitch for Hellyer, a young man with a record of 19 years in the Commons.

Cambodia Makes New Offer

From UPI, Reuters, AP

Resumption of diplomatic relations with the U.S. hinges on American recognition of Cambodian frontiers disputed by South Vietnam, Prince Norodom Sihanouk said Thursday.

At the same time, British Foreign Secretary George Brown said in Washington Britain is prepared to help arrange Vietnam peace talks, but Hanoi's intentions need to be investigated further.

Sihanouk stressed the frontier dispute angle as Ambassador Chester Bowles completed a diplomatic assignment for President Johnson in Phnom Penh and relations between the two countries became closer than at any time in recent years.

A steak dinner for Bowles at Sihanouk's villa on the banks of the Mekong River ended the U.S. envoy's four-day fence-mending mission. It included talks on the "hot pursuit" controversy and the resumption of diplomatic ties between Cambodia and the U.S.

Sihanouk severed diplomatic relations with the U.S. in a weller of charges that American troops were violating Cambodia's borders.

The frontiers as drawn by Cambodia are disputed by both South Vietnam and Thailand, the main Asian allies of the U.S. in the Vietnam war.

Bowles was the first U.S. diplomat to visit Phnom Penh since Sihanouk closed the U.S. embassy 2 1/2 years ago.

Brown Meets Rusk

In Washington, Brown met for 2 1/2 hours with U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk, and told reporters Britain could be involved in peace efforts as co-chairman with the Soviet Union of the 1954 Geneva conference that ended the Indochina war.

British Prime Minister Wilson is scheduled to visit Moscow Jan. 22 for talks with Soviet Premier Kosygin, and Brown said the visit could be meaningful unless Vietnam is discussed.

Brown declined to give details of his talks with Rusk. The talks also included the subject of defence cuts which Britain is considering to help solve its economic problems.

But he said the discussions will be "of very great value" to the British cabinet, which is to meet in London today to decide government expenditure cuts, as well as to the U.S. government.

He described the talks, held during a 24-hour stopover here on his way home from Japan, as "very frank and very deep."

He said they covered a wide range of subjects, including international affairs and related matters of defence.

Referring to a statement two weeks ago by North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh that Hanoi "will hold talks" once the Americans stop bombing North Vietnam, Brown said "it looks as though Hanoi has made a significant move and does in fact want peace."

But he added that other parts of the statement are not so encouraging and it is essential to know as soon as possible how significant it really is.

Casualties Climbing

Meanwhile, Saigon reports said casualty statistics from battle actions a year apart reflect an intensification of the ground war in South Vietnam, due in some degree to revived Communist quests for the initiative.

Spokesmen announced that 466 troops of the anti-Communist allies died last week in combat in which the allies were reported to have killed a record 2,668 Communist soldiers.

In contrast, the first week of January, 1967, was relatively quiet. The allies then listed 190 dead and said they had killed 626 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers.

Widely scattered ground clashes were reported Thursday, while a dense cloud cover continued to hamper U.S. air strikes over North Vietnam.

The skirmishing in South Vietnam centred in provinces of the northernmost region called the 1st Corps area, where elements of the U.S. American Division for weeks have been tangling with substantial Communist forces.

Back in Washington, five retired generals and admirals Thursday joined a group of dissenting business executives which urged Johnson to halt the bombing and reduce the fighting in the south.

Marine Brig.-Gen. Samuel Griffith said he and the other four military men endorsed the statement by business executives' movement for Vietnam peace, which claims 1,600 members. The others are Gen. David Shoup; army Brig.-Gen. William Wallace Ford; army Brig.-Gen. Robert Hughes, and navy Rear-Adm. Arnold True.

Allies Alarmed

NEWLY-SWORN Prime Minister John Gorton of Australia, a wartime fighter pilot and one of his country's most colorful and respected politicians, has called a conference of Commonwealth member-nations of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization in what appears to be an effort to dissuade Great Britain from hurrying military withdrawal from the Far East.

His action is a result of an appeal from Singapore's Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, reported to be alarmed by the imminence—as he sees it—of a British defence force reduction in his little state and in the much larger and more vulnerable Malaysia.

The British currently maintain a garrison force of more than 50,000 men in these areas.

While Prime Minister Lee is probably more concerned at the loss of revenue which would result from the departure of British forces—although the big naval dockyard establishment would be maintained, according to present plans—than he is of any direct threat to Singapore's sovereignty, he must share Malaysia's apprehensiveness in some part.

He will remember just as clearly as the government at Kuala Lumpur the boastful assurance of Communist China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi in 1966 that after South Vietnam "Thailand will be the next target".

That promise was taken by the Southeast Asia Treaty nations as a clear declaration of intention to push the Chinese war of "liberation", as they pervertedly name it, beyond Vietnam and ultimately into Burma and the Malaysian states.

The concern of the treaty nations is well founded, although France and Pakistan among the eight signatories have dissociated themselves from the collective defence undertaking in the SEATO agreement. A British withdrawal of a substantial part of the military support in Malaysia and Singapore is seen as lessening of the deterrent and a compulsion for a greater commitment of forces by the rest of the allies, the United States, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand and the Philippines.

The British position is largely shaped by the domestic crisis, and the desperate search for means of recovery. The trimming of Britain's enormous military budget, something in excess of $5,000,000,000, is considered imperative, and the reduction of the costly Far East commitment is therefore in the nature of a necessity.

That does not mean that Britain would not respond to any threat to the SEATO allies or the territory of the Commonwealth members outside the treaty organization. An attack against Malaysia or Singapore inspired by the Chinese could only be mounted by land and would not prevent, however rapidly it moved, the massive reinforcements of defence forces in the peninsula.

Article IV of the SEATO agreement says that in the event of armed attack on a treaty area each signatory will "act to meet the common danger in accordance with its constitutional processes". This is a little vague, but it is the basis of the British argument that the nation is not committed beyond what it chooses to contribute in an emergency. The treaty, in any event, has no bearing on the British military contribution to Malaysia and Singapore, which it has always been understood would be gradually phased out. And now that terrorism and the threat of invasion from Indonesia no longer cause concern, a British retirement would be in no way a breach of contract.

Crude Propaganda

IT SEEMS almost incredible that such crude and vicious propaganda as an article on heart transplants in the communist youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda could be swallowed by most people in the Soviet Union. From New York, a correspondent wrote that it might have been better if Dr. Christiaan Barnard had not performed his operations—for they could lead the way in the Western World to doctors murdering patients to obtain hearts, livers and kidneys for rich clients: "Just imagine a bandit corporation which deals with the murder of people only for the sake of selling their organs on the black market."

One tends to forget, in the light of Moscow's desire for "peaceful co-existence" and of Soviet achievements in education and in scientific endeavor, that in the U.S.S.R. education and public enlightenment—if it can be so called—still include Communist Party ideology in large measure: the picture of the "imperialist, capitalist" countries as places where the rich cliques oppress the poor masses is everyday fare. Even so, it must occur to many educated and reasoning minds, since communication is not totally lacking, that this picture must be distorted.

However, another discouraging fact is that everywhere in the world there are people who will believe bad about anything. Perhaps one of these is no less than a United States senator, Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota. Senator Mondale has given the communist propagandists of Komsomolskaya Pravda the greatest boost he could give them, though no doubt unknowingly. He agrees with them, foreseeing the possibility that a family "desperate because a transplant could mean life or death to one of its members" might turn to "Murder, Inc." for the answer.

Is the world to suppose then that in the United States, surgeons of the utmost skill and hospitals of the highest quality would accept a black-market heart for transplanting? Or that transplants can be accomplished in a back-room by the likes of an abortionist—even by second-rate surgeons with ordinary equipment and no teams of highly trained assistants?

Ignorance of our ways behind the Iron Curtain is to be expected. Plain ignorance in high places, especially when it bolsters misunderstanding, is to be deplored.

Public Servants

MR. WILLIAM DEAN HOWE: I have a question for the Minister of National Revenue. In view of the fact that the minister made disparaging use of the word "servants" with reference to public service employees—which is the proper designation—and in view of the fact that I have received telephone calls from the president of the postal workers' union objecting to the use of this word over a local radio station, will the minister withdraw this word and refrain from using it in future?

Mr. E. J. Benson: I suppose one could even object to calling members of Parliament servants of the people, but I believe that people who are employed and paid by the public of Canada are servants of that public.

Symbolic Economy Just Too Much to Ask Of Lester Pearson's Spendthrift Cabinet

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

REMEMBER the magnificent "What-a-good-boy-am-I" parliamentary performance presented by Prime Minister Pearson and Finance Minister Sharp?

Seems like just the other day—it was last month, in fact—like a pair of Little Jack Horner's they were sticking their thumbs in the juicy rich $12 billion federal spending pie and triumphantly pulling out all sorts of tasty saving plums to tempt the taxpayer.

They were saving, as the prime minister so proudly put it, "hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars" by not spending everything the 70-odd federal departments, boards, bureaux and assorted government agencies had estimated they would spend.

It all seemed sort of illusory, for they conveniently neglected to specify in dollar detail just what those departmental estimates were.

So the saving amounted to little more than a subtraction from "x" the financial unknown.

But they weren't nearly so secretive about where these savings were to be made.

With a fanfare of trumpets, triumphantly it was proclaimed that among the places where these economies would be produced were the CBC and public works.

This federal building or construction project would have to be dropped and CBC would be compelled to mend its wasteful ways.

Specifically what public works projects?

Well, for example—and this was cutting as close to the cabinet bone as any government economy axe was likely to come—in plans for a face-lifting redecoration of the East Block's privy council chamber.

That's where the cabinet convenes, its wonted to work. The job would have to wait. It was one of those frills the taxpayer gratefully would never miss.

Only a small spending item, really—unofficially estimated at maybe $40,000—but symbolic, supposedly.

For if the high and mighty in the highest circle of federal power could make the sacrifice, couldn't everybody in government?

And then just the other day it leaked—through some faceless civil servant with a wry sense of humor—that ever so quietly it had been decided the sacrifice was just too much.

The privy council chamber redecoration job was "on" again.

The cabinet couldn't be expected to wait—in fact wouldn't—for its working quarters to be done over in a style befitting ministerial pomp and circumstance.

So new drapes are to be hung. New rugs wall to wall. And the historic 100-year-old cabinet "think tank" given an expensive new paint job.

Expensive because the ornamental woodwork has to be scraped down through some 12 coats of paint—the last layer is off-white—to the original natural cedar.

How come, somebody asked, that cabinet itself can't seem to make its own symbolic saving stick?

Well, it was this way, explained the understandably embarrassed federal works department... the saving actually still would be made by not spending that estimated $40,000 some place else, by cutting out some other project.

Now as to the supposedly pace-setting saving the CBC was to make in the drive for economy.

Its capital budget was being slashed from the $57 million to $25 million which would be $5 million less than it got last year.

(That's just the capital budget, mind you, a bit more than a drop in the CBC spending bucket that has brimmed to $140 million.)

Catch is that the capital budget admittedly was inflated by the special costs of introducing color television and by the extra expense of centennial year demands.

From such a high spending peak a drop of $5 million can scarcely qualify even as a realistic saving, let alone as a cruel cut in the name of economy.

So don't you let 'em kid you.

Teeming London's 'Overspill' Finds Refuge in the Provinces

By OY FOX
from Wellingborough, England

THIS ancient community nestling in the East Midlands' garden landscape is going modern in a big way—as a new home for thousands of people spilling over from jam-packed London.

With a current population of 35,000, Wellingborough is sprouting factories and houses at a rapid pace. By 1981, the once-tranquil market town should have 85,000 residents.

Its growth is part of a national plan designed to siphon off some of the congested capital's 8,000,000 people and myriad factories, and spread them through areas hard up for economic development or—as with Wellingborough—having expansion room to spare.

The Londoners lured away to the provinces are known in officialdom as "overspill".

In Wellingborough, which dates from the era before Christ, the overspill now amounts to 4,000 people housed in new residences ringing the town centre.

They were drawn here by about 30 freshly-arrived firms, ranging from a manufacturer of hydraulic pumps to a publisher dealing in communist books and periodicals.

The incoming concerns are housed in industrial estates carved from land that once was tree-dotted greenery.

Factories, warehouses and offices are built with public funds, then leased out at what local officials call much lower rents than those charged in London, 66 miles away.

The new publicly-financed houses also go for low rents—about $12 a week for a three-bedroom residence with central heating.

This deal looks golden for a family man sick of the high rents and sub-standard housing common in London.

A spokesman for the Greater London Council says there are almost 250,000 families in the capital "without homes of their own or who have to share bathrooms, kitchens, toilets and front doors."

About 550,000 new homes will be needed in London by 1981 if present growth trends continue there but "it seems unlikely that more than 200,000 can be built," said the spokesman.

"There's just no room for any more."

Industrial sites in the metropolis are increasingly hard to find, general costs are high and transportation of products is hampered by London's dense, dead-slow traffic.

The London council points to such factors in explaining its readiness to co-operate with communities wanting to absorb industry and people from the capital in drives for local development.

Wellingborough is one of 30 towns earmarked for expansion to relieve the crush in London and other big British cities. The East Midlands town began its growth scheme in 1962.

Money for the project comes from the London council through executive control remains with Wellingborough authorities.

About 10 per cent of the newcomers tire of life in the provinces and head back to the big city's gaudy night life, massive shopping facilities and familiar haunts.

Among the overspill majority staying on, long-established Wellingburgians are out to promote an at-home feeling.

Local shops have to be improved for the comparatively fastidious tastes of the ex-Londoners and such services as bus transportation improved.

One woman born in Wellingborough voiced regrets for the town's rapidly disappearing old order.

"But we don't resent the newcomers. We'll get used to them in time. It will work out."

'Sisu' Finns' Bulwark

From The Portland Oregonian

"SISU" is a Finnish word which cannot be translated exactly into English. It means, among other things, courage and perseverance, a capability to keep going no matter how hard the road.

The fact that Finland today observes its 50th anniversary as an independent nation is attributed widely to the national characteristic which is encompassed by the word "sisu." The Baltic states—Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—won their independence about the same time Finland did, after the Russian revolution. They lost theirs in 1940 when the Soviet Union took them over. The Finns successfully retained their freedom against the same aggressor, though the cost was high in men, territory and reparations.

"Sisu" was not entirely responsible for Finland's better showing. It was not as directly in the jaws of the Russo-German nutcracker as were the Baltic states. But in the Winter War and during the hard times after the Second World War, a people of lesser courage might easily have given up.

The Finnish nation must continue to struggle to keep its independence and the high standard of living it has managed to attain despite limited resources. One wishes it an easier second half century with no diminution of its "sisu."

Today in History

By The Canadian Press

Emperor Maximilian I of Germany died 449 years ago today—in 1519—after a reign of 25 years which bridged the medieval world and that of the reformation. He was the first German king to assume the title of "Roman emperor elect." As head of the house of Hapsburg—which ruled Austria until 1918—Maximilian fought with and against every country in Europe at one time or another and financed an attempt by Perkin Warbeck to seize the English crown.

1848—The Sicilian revolution began.

First World War: Fifty years ago today—in 1918—two British destroyers foundered off the Scottish coast. A German attack near Verdun was repulsed. British forces landed at Port Amelia, in Portuguese East Africa. A mine explosion in Staffordshire, England, killed 155.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—the Japanese strongly resisted a British advance down the Malay Peninsula of Western Burma. Allied airmen destroyed four aircraft in the air and on the ground in a raid on Castel Benito airfield, near Tripoli. Additional arrests were made in connection with the assassination of Admiral Jean Dorian of France.

Peace or War?

Fate of Middle East A Burning Question

By ROBERT STEPHENS

ONE effect of the Middle East war has been to widen the Israel-Arab problem more clearly than before into its three component circles: Israel and the Palestine Arabs; world Jewry and the Arab world as a whole, and the great powers, primarily now America and Russia.

Just as the feared threat to Israel and subsequent victory galvanized Jews all over the world to an extent not seen before, so Arabs in many countries have become directly and consciously involved in this issue in a new way. Nor can the great powers now wash their hands of responsibility for a situation they helped to create. Their policies and their arms helped to bring about the war, and their influence, tactfully used, is essential to bring about a peace.

This widening of interests makes a solution in some ways more complicated, but it also brings into play new influences which could be moderating and constructive. The great powers, for example, can of course choose to exploit the divisions in the Middle East for their own purposes. The Russians can give priority to winning Arab favor and ousting American influence from the Middle East; the Americans may prefer to discredit Russia's credibility as an ally and ensure their own influence in Israel and with Jewish voters at home. But, in the end, this can mean only more serious trouble for both America and Russia.

Similarly, world Jewry and the Arab world can either make the central conflict worse by amplifying the fears and bitterness of the main local contestants—with a chauvinism which is often all the more intense for being ill-informed—or they can help towards a settlement by bringing a more detached and broader point of view to bear. At present both tendencies exist together.

As far as Israel and her immediate Arab neighbors are concerned, the first thing that strikes one is the profound psychological gulf that still exists between them, so that to look for an early reconciliation would be optimistic. But the second strong impression is that there has been an important change: the realistic long-term aims of each side—as opposed to their ideal desires—are now much nearer to each other. They are, in fact, remarkably similar in outline, if not always in the details or the spirit in which they are conceived.

These aims are based on the assumption that secure coexistence is both more essential than territorial expansion to the Israelis and more important to the Arabs than a new attempt at reconquest or annihilation. If this assumption can be firmly established—and because of the psychological gulf each side has yet to be convinced of the other's view—it is no longer impossible to think of a program of peace which could lead eventually to a more formal peace treaty, and even one day to a closer link, such as a confederation between Israel and Jordan, or more than one Arab state. But the process is bound to be long and gradual, with outside forces helping to create and maintain confidence at each step. This should be the task of the great powers and as far as possible of the wiser elements of world Jewry and the Arab world.

The central problem itself, between the Israelis and the Palestine Arabs, is basically simple. If two nations claim the same land, either one drives the other out, or they agree to drop their claim to exclusivity and enjoy it jointly, or they divide it. In an ideal world the second solution would be the most sensible, and one day may yet come. But enjoying the land jointly implies a radical change in the nature of both Jewish and Arab nationalism that seems unattainable so long as each nation is dominated by the desire to assert its separate identity and not to be subject to the rule of another, and so long as this aim is regarded as capable of fulfillment only on a basis of territorial sovereignty.

Moreover, there are some special factors which make the idea of a mixed Arab-Jewish state, even a federation, as difficult now as it has always been, though it has supporters, for different reasons, on both sides. One factor is the difference in cultures and social and economic development. With the influx of Middle Eastern Jews into Israel and the rapid development of the Arab countries, this gap is narrowing. But just as the Israelis need to rediscover their Middle Eastern identity in their own way, so the Arabs want to explore the 20th century at their own pace.

Another factor is the dynamic nature of Zionism, which claims through immigration to extend potential Jewish nationhood to many more people throughout the world than are already in the state of Israel. This would make a mixed state—unless immigration were limited—fundamentally unstable from the Arab point of view, while the much higher Arab birth-rate, a kind of internal immigration, would make it unstable for the Israelis.

But if the idea of one side driving the other out has been abandoned and a mixed state does not yet seem practicable, then a stable partition of Palestine is now to be achieved it has to be approached in a new context. It is not just a question of "how to settle the Arab refugee" or of "whether Jews and Arabs can live together."

Both these things can happen, provided the proper political and economic framework is created. The heart of the problem is rather what partition of former Palestine will give both Jews and Palestine Arabs a reasonable security and economic viability, taking into account the new essential link of the Palestine Arabs with Eastern Jordan, the former Transjordan.

And what help is needed from outside to ensure the security and viability of the Jewish and Arab states? For despite all Israel's brave talk of relying on herself alone, the fact remains that both she and the Palestinian Arabs depend in the last resort on outside support in money, arms and ultimate military and diplomatic protection. Some of this support comes from world Jewry or the Arab world, but each side also calls in other powers, particularly for arms supplies.

So the key points of a settlement—frontiers, including the status of Jerusalem, the refugees and transit rights—have to be approached in a way that in the first instance helps the creation of both secure Israel and a viable and effective Palestinian state on both sides of the Jordan.

But in discussing apparently rational political formulae, one has always to remember that one is dealing with two sets of highly-sensitive human beings in a unique situation. Palestine, alias Israel-Jordan, is, alas, an unforgettable country. Alas, for peace and sanity, for under the tense bright sky that spans its fertile plains, its dream-like hills and legendary towns of golden stone, it is easy to see why it has been so fought over, why it has haunted the Jewish memory for 2,000 years and why the Palestinian Arabs who have known its reality for 1,300 years cling to it so passionately and in exile have already developed something remarkably like a second Zionist movement.

The war seven months ago has not settled these passions, but stirred them more strongly on both sides. A human and historical problem which has lasted unsolved for 50 years or 2,000 according to your point of view is unlikely to be finally settled in six days of war, however spectacular, or six months of diplomatic argument however well intentioned. The most that war or diplomacy can hope to do at this moment is to turn the trend of events and thought in one direction or another, deeper into destructive defiance or nearer towards reconciliation.

Warsaw Parley Underlines Inherent Dangers of Vietnam Escalation

U.S., China Swap Chilling Warnings

By FREDECK NOSSAL, from Hong Kong

This week's meeting between the U.S. and Chinese ambassadors in Warsaw must have been the most chilling in the history of these talks.

Asian diplomats believe that both the U.S. and China restated their positions but that there was one basic difference in the discussions. Washington evidently issued the clearest warning yet to China not to enter North Vietnam, Laos or Cambodia with Chinese volunteers.

And Peking is said to have told U.S. Ambassador John Gronouski that further U.S. escalations in the war would make it impossible to avoid a direct U.S.-Chinese confrontation.

U.S. bombers attacked a Chinese freighter last Wednesday in the North Vietnam port of Cam Pha — probably on direct orders from the Pentagon.

The U.S. is trying to demonstrate to North Vietnam and also the National Liberation Front in South Vietnam that China's bark is worse than its bite.

Another motive for the attack on the eve of the Warsaw talks might have been to give the U.S. ambassador some ammunition in his discussions with Chinese chargé d'affaires Chen Tung.

Peking's ambassador, Wang Kuo-chuan, is said to be in China. He is one of many top envoys recalled by Peking as result of the cultural revolution.

The U.S. attack at Cam Pha also was a reminder to the Chinese that the U.S. has at its disposal the most powerful air and naval units in the world.

Although nobody was killed the Chinese news agency said the freighter was badly damaged and several crew members were seriously hurt.

The second bombing incident against a Chinese vessel — the first occurred at the North Vietnamese port on Nov. 25, 1967 — was symbolic of what will happen to Chinese cities if Peking decides to enter the war on Hanoi's side.

The Chinese again gave only a sharp verbal response. But Peking hinted that North Vietnam could never be defeated outright.

In a statement on the incident the Chinese foreign ministry said, "the vast expanse of China's territory is the Vietnamese people's reliable rear area."

Peking is following a policy of prolonging the Vietnam war for as long as possible without any early direct involvement of Chinese troops.

Peking is convinced that the longer the war lasts the more acute the U.S. administration's home problems will become. Peking also is using its military aid and manpower assistance to North Vietnam as a weapon in the Sino-Soviet dispute.

Tens of thousands of Chinese troops are working as laborers repairing North Vietnamese railways and roads.

These could be mobilized as fighting forces the moment Peking gives the word.

These issues were probably not discussed directly in the Warsaw talks.

But both the U.S. and Chinese diplomats gave broad hints that the situation would grow worse if the other side did not toe the line.

BACKGROUNDS

Johnson Not Satisfied With 'Will Talk' Offer

By ARCH MACKENZIE
From Wellington

U.S. determination to get what it wants in Vietnam is underlined by its reaction to the latest policy shift from the North.

North Vietnam said Jan. 1 it "will" talk peace to the U.S. if the bombing and other attacks against its territory halt. That's a change, a "significant" one. British Foreign Secretary George Brown said Thursday after meeting State Secretary Dean Rusk.

But evidently it isn't enough for President Johnson, not yet at least, despite repeated avowals to go more than half way to the conference table.

The U.S. price for a bombing halt, it seems clear, is North Vietnam's withdrawal from the war.

The U.S. and South Vietnam then would proceed with the long-haul task of mopping up the Viet Cong insurgents in the South.

Skepticism that the Johnson government talks a better peace game than it practices is summed up in the Washington Post cartoon by Herblock, showing Rusk and the figure of North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh in the background.

Ho's sign says, "We'll talk if you'll stop the bombing." Rusk is telling a reporter: "As I was saying, all we want is a sign — if the sign will just say what we want it to say."

The U.S. is following up North Vietnam's policy change much more quietly than it pushes its own peace blitzes. It may be soliciting information on just how "productive" talks with Hanoi would be.

But unless there are hard-and-fast pledges from the North about reductions in military activity to match a bombing halt, it is taken for granted here, the order of battle will stay right where it is.

The Soviet Union carefully has refrained from any public stand on the latest move by Hanoi. But some Soviet representatives privately expressed the view that Hanoi would have been smarter long ago to pledge talks if the bombing stops, rather than saying they "might" or "could" follow.

As matters stand, however, President Johnson seems increasingly impervious to what the rest of the world thinks on Vietnam. This in part is his own reaction and in part awareness of the domestic political complications arising from the forthcoming elections.

Pope Paul, for example, in face-to-face session over Vietnam at the Vatican, made no visible impression by calling again for a bombing halt.

Developments Form Pattern

Brazil Again the Target Of Latin American Reds

By FRANCIS B. KENT
From Rio de Janeiro

Slowly and quietly, with little drama, Brazil seems to be falling into place again as the primary Communist target in Latin America.

No single incident, no formal declaration points to this conclusion, but it is virtually inescapable in light of the pattern formed by scattered and seemingly unrelated developments.

These range from one end of this vast country to the other and include elaborate schemes to seize entire states.

The Communist threat to Brazil, largest and most populous country in Latin America, was widely thought to have been eliminated by the military revolt of March, 1964. A leftist president, Joao Goulart, was toppled and sent into exile. The Brazilian Communist party (PCB) was shattered and outlawed and its hold on the labor movement broken.

But subversive activity, violent and otherwise, did not stop with the revolt. Taken singly the incidents are often dismissed officially as irrelevant or insignificant. Yet scarcely a month passes without a bombing, the disclosure of some leftist plot, the capture of a guerrilla gang.

Now the PCB itself, its leadership again intact, feels bold enough to conduct a clandestine national congress and issue a threatening resolution.

Its message: the conventional, Moscow-oriented Communists prefer to seek power through the democratic process, but unless the present military government makes fundamental changes in policy the masses will be swept along the road to armed insurrection.

This is the gist of a resolution adopted last month in Sao Paulo by the sixth PCB congress, the first since 1960. It is being interpreted by some authorities as a significant departure from the traditional PCB stand against violent means.

If this interpretation proves correct, the incidence of violence can be expected to rise sharply, for as one expert observed: "The PCB is the only organization in Brazil large enough and adequately equipped to carry out this kind of work. It has about 15,000 members scattered over the country and it has technicians well trained in the necessary arts."

Even without PCB support, the Havana-oriented wing of the Communist movement has kept the Brazilian military busy.

From Rio Grande do Sul on the Uruguayan border to the Amazon jungle, guerrillas have cropped up in increasing numbers. Ironically, their trails lead almost invariably to a man never identified as a member of any Communist party.

This is Leonel Brizzola, a former congressman and brother-in-law of Goulart, who like the ex-president, fled to exile in Uruguay after the military revolt.

Whether Brizzola does or does not carry a party card is not considered relevant. In the words of one official, "If it looks like a duck and walks like a duck, it must be a duck."

Brizzola's name has been linked officially to:

● A plot disclosed by security agents in November, 1964, to take over the state governments in Rio Grande do Sul, Sao Paulo, Guanabara and Goias.

● A renegade army colonel, Jefferson Cardim, who was captured early last year after he and a band of former soldiers attacked a military outpost near the Uruguayan border.

● A guerrilla band broken up last March and April in the mountainous area about 125 miles inland from the port city of Vitoria, in Espirito Santo.

● An armed group, described as a guerrilla force, arrested last August in Mato Grosso, not far from the Bolivian border.

● Another guerrilla gang flushed out last September near Uberlandia, about 200 miles south of the federal capital at Brasilia.

In June, 1964, military authorities here disclosed that Brizzola had arranged a loan of $10,000,000 from the government of Fidel Castro through the Cuban ambassador in Rio. Half of the money was said to have been delivered before the March revolt erupted.

Technically, Brizzola is permitted to remain in Uruguay only so long as he keeps clear of politics. He meets openly with other Brazilian exiles, however, and his apartment in Montevideo looks like rebel headquarters.

He wears a revolver on his hip and moves freely about the country. Unconfirmed reports have it that he often slips across the border into Rio Grande do Sul.

The Brazilian foreign ministry has complained often to the Uruguayan government, but next to nothing has been done to restrict Brizzola's movements.

Arab Unity Elusive

By ROBERT SONDER
From Algiers

The Arab states are scheduled to meet in a summit conference in the North African Moroccan capital of Rabat on Jan. 17 to seek unity of action against Israel.

But already intransigent Syria has sent word that it is not attending the conference. Militant Algeria has made it known that its president, Houari Boumedienne, will not go to Rabat but instead will send a representative—probably Foreign Minister Abdel Aziz Bouteflika.

Syria and Algeria have adopted a similar attitude vis-a-vis Israel since last June's Middle East war which ended in a swift Arab defeat.

Both maintain that it would be better for the Arabs to wage a war against Israel instead of meeting in "futile" conferences even if these are at the summit level.

The Algerians, however, although upholding their stand, have been more lenient by not boycotting the conference altogether in order to show their good will and co-operation.

The Rabat conference will be the second summit held by the Arab states since the June six-day war. The first one met at Khartoum, the capital of the Sudan, at the end of last August.

There are three other White House planes. Next to move is the cargo plane with the President's bullet-proof automobile and an open car for the secret service. This is on hand wherever the President arrives. This plane, like the advance plane, is loaded with secret-service and communications experts.

Then comes Air Force One, carrying the President and his closest advisers with more secret service and communications experts, spare pilots and crew and half a dozen "pool" members of the press, radio-TV, and particularly the president's own personal photographer, Yoichi Okamoto, who records every move the President makes. Of course Adm. Burkeley, the presidential physician, is aboard too.

Next comes the "back-up plane" in case Air Force One falters. It too, is loaded with aides.

Last, but not least, the press plane. This one, leased from an airline, has the press aboard, always wondering where they are going and what arrangements—if any—have been made for them to file their stories. They sleep, if they do, sitting up.

The press plane is the only one that pays its own way—the rest of the flight is paid for by the taxpayers.

How would you get from here to YYZ YYC YEG YWG YOW YUL JFK YVR SEA?

LBJ Trips Mad Affairs

By BILL HENRY, from Washington

When the President goes travelling, he certainly travels in style. There's been a lot of comment about the group of planes which accompanied President Johnson on his recent round the world trip. There is also a lot of criticism. Certainly it is expensive.

The Johnson trips are mad affairs with little or no advance notice, hasty planning, little rest for anybody.

On this recent one he was gone 116 hours, of which 58 hours were spent in the air. There was only one full night of rest on the ground. Two reporters were left behind in hospitals en route—done in from exhaustion. Stops were not announced in advance.

The Pope was kept up for an unprecedented evening call and Italy's President Saragat was miffed playing second fiddle to the Pope. It was a hectic affair all around.

The presidential fleet usually consists of five big jets. First to go is the advance plane which, as its name implies, goes ahead by perhaps 24 hours to make security arrangements. The President is never out of touch with the White House. Phones are hooked to his plane the instant it rolls to a stop. There is a direct connection wherever he moves.

Labor Argument know about it and we still don't know what their proposals were."

Mr. Staley said the federation believes public hearings before a committee on such vital matters would provide a better cross-section of public opinion.

NO REASON

There is no reason, he added, why the committee should not have met well ahead of the Jan. 25 start of the session so that any changes recommended in the legislation could be prepared by the departments involved.

In the circumstances, said Mr. Staley, the federation will probably take its proposals directly to the minister. The brief strongly urged review of legislation on injunctions and asked for clause-by-clause revision of the Labor Relations Act.

LABOR ROLE

The federation said government literature spells out the role of the labor department as promoting the welfare of the wage earner while encouraging harmonious labor-management relations.

An accompanying statement said the brief "deplored the way government-supervised strike votes were being manipulated." The brief itself called for abolition of the government-supervised strike vote.

It also asked for a change in the Trade Union Act which it said presently presumes that a trade unionist is guilty of an offence until proved innocent. And it urged the government to bring in legislation to prevent use of professional strike-breakers.

NO INDICATION

There had been no previous indication that the government plans to amend either the Labor Relations Act or the Trade Union Act, said federation representatives following the meeting with cabinet ministers given Thursday.

Mr. Staley said the meeting with cabinet "by and large was amicable" but he protested that for the third consecutive year Premier Bennett wasn't present for the annual labor submission.

CIVIL SERVANTS

The brief also asked for bargaining rights for all civil servants and a full-time minister of labor.

Ministers were silent, too, on proposals for new liquor legislation to allow drinks with meals on Sundays, opening of bars on election day; implementation of the Morrow report on gasoline prices; government run car insurance for all; and creation of a provincial housing corporation.

said the leave had been planned for some time, was to last 30 days and that Jefferson was scheduled to return to Warsaw.

Asked whether he would return, the spokesman said "that was the original plan."

PAP said Jefferson and Metzger, on assignment in Warsaw since May, 1966, attempted to photograph a military establishment Jan. 4.

However, the U.S. embassy said in a statement—which made no mention of Jefferson—that Metzger was walking along a major thoroughfare in Bydgoszcz, in northern Poland, and was "apprehended at gun point by military personnel, detained against his will, denied permission to telephone the American embassy and forcibly searched."

The U.S. statement said Col. Metzger was on a trip at the time "in an area where American diplomatic personnel are permitted to travel without restriction."

The statement said Metzger was detained from mid-afternoon until early morning, Jan. 5.

Metzger said he plans to leave Warsaw Sunday with his wife and son, 11.

Jefferson graduated from the Royal Military College at Kingston, Ont., in 1942 and served in England and northwest Europe during the Second World War.

After the war he returned to Canada and held several appointments before joining the faculty of RMC in 1961 as an instructor in military studies.

An officer in the Royal Canadian Dragoons, Jefferson also was an instructor at the armored corps school at Camp Borden, Ont.

The ministry version said the two officers were "unmasked while carrying out their intelligence activities in an area of important military objects."

It said sentries noticed them photographing and called on them to hand over the camera.

"Both diplomats attempted to run away," the Polish account said, "but realized they were caught redhanded."

PAP described "intelligence materials" seized as film of military objects and a plan in English for intelligence reconnaissance of a regional city, not named, with a list of names and locations of military and economic objects in the city.

Cuba Arrests Two Britons

HAVANA (Reuters) — Cuban authorities have arrested two British journalists on charges of photographing military objectives and for "gross lack of respect," a foreign ministry spokesman said Thursday night.

Quebec May Share Satellite

'But Contents Ours'

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Daniel Johnson said Thursday Quebec is ready to let the federal government in on its biggest prestige project with France—a French communications satellite.

Johnson told a news conference Quebec is prepared to negotiate with Ottawa over jurisdiction, but the province insists on jurisdiction over education and cultural matters.

"Radio, TV and satellites have become tools of education," he said. "Ottawa could have jurisdiction over the content, we could have jurisdiction over the content."

During his Paris talks with President de Gaulle of France last May, Johnson sought and won French approval in principle to participate in a French-German satellite project.

Johnson said Thursday Quebec sought permission to participate because Ottawa was not taking the initiative and Quebec wants at least one satellite "that speaks French."

He was commenting on Paris remarks by Energy Minister Jean-Luc Pepin who said communications is under federal jurisdiction and there will be a bilingual satellite over Canada involving the federal government.

NOT POLITICAL

Johnson said of France-Quebec relations:

"It's not a political matter as far as I am concerned."

"We are blazing the trail today for the year 2000."

"Perhaps then the young people of Quebec will be able to follow arts courses directly from the Sorbonne by television."

Quebec's relations with France should be viewed in this light by the rest of Canada, especially by Ottawa which should "change its traditional views of diplomacy."

"We are ready to take into account the interests of Canada French culture in general," he said, "but we are not ready to leave to Ottawa, no."

BATTLE MOUNTAIN, Nev. (AP) — Searchers Thursday found the burned wreck of a U.S. marine transport plane with all aboard dead.

The four-engine plane, carrying 18 to 20 marines, crashed in a blizzard Wednesday near the peak of 9,913-foot Mount Tobin, highest point in the desolate area of north-eastern Nevada 22 miles south of here.

The C-54 was en route to Seattle from Buckley air field in Denver.

Homesick Elephant
Gets Cure

HALIFAX (CP) — A working elephant brought to the Anil Canada Ltd. hardwood plant at East River, N.S., last summer, is being sent home to India.

A director of the company, Pramod Jolly, said Thursday the Indian climate will be far more comfortable for the elephant.

He said the company was unable to find a zoo that would take the elephant for the winter months. And, said company officials, the elephant and his Indian trainer are homesick.

AS TOOL SHED

The elephant has been used to haul logs and as a mascot. Jolly said a shelter built on the site of the plant for the elephant will now be dismantled, or may be used as tool shed.

He said the elephant will leave East River Jan. 19 arriving in Saint John, N.B., Jan. 22 where he will be loaded aboard a ship for India.

The plant about 40 miles from here represents India's first major industrial investment in North America.

Divorce Bill Attacked
By Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican reacted bitterly Thursday to approval of a key section of the controversial "little divorce" bill before the Italian Parliament.

L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican daily, calls the approval a unilateral violation of the 1929 Lateran Pact, which regulates relations between the Italian state and the Holy See.

The Italian Chamber of Deputies, justice commission voted approval Wednesday of the article, which states that the civil character of a Roman Catholic marriage may be dissolved even if the church still views the marriage as valid.

Divorce could become a disintegrating factor in Italy, the paper says in continuing Pope Paul's attack against the divorce bill.

Paris Talks May Ease Official Strain

PARIS (CP) — Talk of possible improvement in relations between Ottawa and the French government circulated here Thursday as Mines Minister Jean-Luc Pepin flew in and announced Canada may agree as early as next week to the sale of $1,500,000 worth of plutonium to France.

The influential Paris newspaper Le Monde attributes considerable political significance to Pepin's visit, following the earlier arrival this week of representatives of the Quebec government and of French-language organizations in New Brunswick.

The week of exceptional Canadian activity in the French capital was to be crowned today with the opening of a month-long exhibition of modern Canadian art.

With protocol a significant factor in Canadian visits following the trip of President de Gaulle to Canada last year, there was wide interest in who was meeting with whom.

NO WELCOME
For instance, it was noted that no French government official was on hand at the airport to meet Pepin.

Although a Canadian embassy spokesman said protocol dictates the need for an official government reception only at the time of the art show, it was recalled that Quebec Cultural Minister Jean-Noel Tremblay was welcomed by personnel described in the press as "French foreign ministry officials" when he arrived by air Tuesday.

NOT RETALIATING
Le Monde says the visit of Pepin serves to confirm that "the French government does not plan to ignore Ottawa even if the 1967 Canadian trip of Gen. de Gaulle was followed by a decided chilling of Franco-Canadian relations."

"If a final agreement on plutonium follows Mr. Pepin's visit, this could confirm a certain improvement in these relations."

France was said to have accepted the principle of peaceful uses only for the Canadian plutonium, and this Pepin called "psychologically significant" to the talks now in their last stages.

NOTES PROBLEM
Pepin, who also will meet a variety of French ministers concerned with technology and industry, said on the question of any communications satellite joining France and Quebec:

"The area of telecommunications remains exclusively under federal jurisdiction."

Andre Bettencourt, minister of state for foreign affairs, is one of the ministers Pepin will meet. He earlier received Tremblay and the four Acadian New Brunswickers now rounding out the first half of their two-week stay in France.

LANGUAGE PROBLEMS
The Acadians talked about their community's language problems when they met Thursday with Bettencourt, one of the men in charge of the red-carpet arrangements for their visit as guests of France.

They also met with a state-backed committee that promotes expansion of the French language around the world.

One of the visitors said the heavily increased French cultural aid which he fully expects in the case of New Brunswick's Acadians may be extended eventually to French-speaking residents of Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

POST-WAR AID
The aid he expects for the French-language Moncton newspaper L'Evangeline likely would be dispensed by a Paris-based organization first established after the Second World War to aid France's own press.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The total value of fish caught by B.C. commercial fishermen was about $10,000,000 less in 1967 than in 1966, W. R. Hourston, Pacific regional director of the federal fisheries department, said Wednesday.

He said preliminary estimates place the total value at about $50,000,000.

In his year-end summary to the United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union, Mr. Hourston said salmon production dropped 17 per cent to 135,000,000 pounds from 162,000,000 pounds in 1966.

However, he said the landed value of all salmon was expected to exceed $36,000,000, about 7 per cent less than the record 1966, because of a larger per-

Removal Fuss Sequel

Judge Scolds Foster Mom

TORONTO (CP) — Judge Harry Walsberg's inquiry report into the removal of two Waterloo Children's Aid Society wards from the Preston, Ont. home of foster parents Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Timbrell contains heavy criticism for Mrs. Timbrell, tempered only by a mild reproof for the society.

The report, released Thursday by Social Services Minister John Yaremko, held Mrs. Timbrell to blame for violence surrounding the removal Sept. 28 of two sisters, Peggy, 5, and Valerie, 3, by Preston police on CAS orders.

Judge Walsberg found the society justified in practically all its actions and held the CAS had the legal right to take the children into its custody.

"It seems to me, however, that the society showed poor judgment in exercising that right under the existing circumstances."

The judge said the society was fully aware of the preparations made by Mrs. Timbrell in case the threat to remove the children was carried out.

IN NEW HOME
Key conclusion of the 147-page report is that the two sisters should remain in their new foster home pending their adoption by regular procedures.

The report was welcomed by society director W. A. Hunsberger who said it would provide "considerable comfort" to CAS workers.

Mrs. Timbrell reacted to the report by calling for a new hearing, terming the findings unfair.

NEW INQUIRY
She criticized Judge Walsberg's previous associations with children's aid societies and asked for "a new inquiry with a fair judge who has not been connected with the CAS previously."

The judge was a director of the Sudbury and District CAS from 1947 to 1959 and served one-year terms as president in 1951 and 1952.

Judge Walsberg variously accused Mrs. Timbrell of bad faith, taking the law into her own hands and a wide variety of improper actions. At the same time he held invalid her two excuses for her behavior: that the CAS intended to separate the children, and that her bid to adopt the sisters had been rejected on religious grounds.

The sisters are Roman Catholics, the Timbrells Anglicans.

The judge said the Timbrells "did not act in good faith" when they declined to disclose criminal records and their family background in applying to become foster parents in 1966.

The judge also found the Timbrells hadn't co-operated in preparation of the children for adoption.

He criticized Mrs. Timbrell for "inviting news media to participate in the dispute with the society," and arousing neighbors "to support her position."

Devaluation Big Booster For U.K. Foreign Trade

LONDON (AP) — Britain's foreign trade improved dramatically in December following devaluation of the pound Nov. 18, the Board of Trade announced Thursday. The trade deficit was less than half that of November.

Exports and re-exports surged upwards by $1,000,000 ($233,000,000). Imports also rose but only by $30,000,000.

Exports in December were $445,000,000 and re-exports $18,000,000. The figures for November were $340,000,000 and $14,000,000.

Imports were $601,000,000 against a revised figure for November of $571,000,000.

DISCOUNT RATE
The Bank of England's discount rate, which regulates all borrowing in the country, remained unchanged at the crisis level of eight per cent, fixed at the time of the pound's devaluation Nov. 18.

The Board of Trade said the December figures were still somewhat affected adversely by the Liverpool strike of dockworkers which ended Nov. 27.

The visible deficit for 1967 as a whole showed a monthly average of $47,000,000.

A large part of the higher import figures for December, the board said, came from the higher cost in sterling of imports because of devaluation of the pound.

LONDON (AP) — A mini-gold rush developed in the London bullion market Thursday and the price of the metal surged up more than 2 1/2 cents when the Bank of England was unable to satisfy demand fully.

Market sources said the bank, which operates the seven-nation international gold pool, was evidently caught by surprise at the sudden rise in demand after weeks of comparatively minor trading.

The price set at the daily "fixing" at N. M. Rothschild and Sons was $35.17, up 2 1/2 cents on Wednesday's price.

NOT AS HIGH
Dealers emphasized that demand for the metal Thursday was nowhere near that of the gold rushes in November and December when demand reached 100 tons and more a day.

One dealer said the demand began even before the price fixing and continued in later dealings to send the price up another cent to $35.18 an ounce.

Normal demand on the London market, the world's main gold trading centre, is between eight and 10 tons a day.

NEW YORK (AP) — Volkswagen of America, Inc., said Thursday it is recalling 42,000 of its 1968 cars, trucks and station wagons for checks of possible safety defects. The company said it is asking owners of 29,000 sedans to return the 1968 cars for replacement of a plate in the spare wheel in the front of the car.

The company said early production models had the plate secured by bolts which could chafe walls of the spare tire.

TORONTO (CP) — Robert Ryan has resigned as head of the Canadian operations of Gulf American Corp., a Miami-based real estate firm. The company was suspended Dec. 10 from doing any business for 30 days after pleading guilty to five charges of illegal and unethical sales practices.

At the time of the suspension, a cabinet meeting said diplomatic relations would be broken and all bilateral conventions between the two countries denounced.

Rwanda's refusal to heed resolutions regarding the mercenaries is an "anti-African attitude," the communiqué said.

"She will have to answer to Africa for renouncing her engagements. The mercenary question has become an African problem."

Funeral Options To Stay

The Memorial Society of British Columbia said in Vancouver Thursday it has been told that B.C. undertakers have decided against seeking legislation to give them professional status.

The society said in a statement the decision of the B.C. Funeral Services Association was contained in a letter from the association lawyer.

The undertakers had proposed a bill setting up a six-man board, including three undertakers and embalmers, to license embalmers and undertakers, inspect funeral parlors, and establish a school for embalmers and undertakers.

The society, set up to provide basic $100 burials, feared that the proposed board would have control over the Memorial Society as well as conventional undertakers, and would not be impartial.

Class is beginning to tell in the National Hockey League, where Montreal Canadiens are suddenly in third place in the Eastern Division and eyeing something higher and where even the best of the expansion clubs is beginning to learn that it takes time to establish class.

Last night, Canadiens extended their undefeated streak to eight games and moved past the idle Toronto Maple Leafs and to within five points of the division lead by knocking down Philadelphia Flyers, 4-2.

Flyers, who lead the expansion division and have the best goals-against record in the league, started out 4-1-1 against established clubs. Last night's defeat was their seventh in a row in inter-divisional play.

Punch Shows Other Side —More Jekyll Than Hyde

TORONTO (CP)—Punch Imlach, known as the tough-guy coach of Toronto Maple Leafs, must be here, he made sure I was.

He called defenceman Darryl Sly up this week from Rochester Americans so he could be in Toronto while his two-year-old son Darryn was in hospital.

At training camp last fall, Sly learned his son would need a heart operation. "Punch has been more than fair with me," he said. "He told me not to worry and that he'd arrange for me to be in Toronto when the time came. He sent me back to Rochester after a few games but when I wanted to be here, he made sure I was."

Vancouver Bids $500,000 For 1970 Hockey Tournney

VANCOUVER — A three-man delegation left for Fort William Thursday prepared to offer a guaranteed $500,000 to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association if it awards the 1970 world hockey tournament to Vancouver.

Vancouver and Winnipeg made the earliest bids, but Montreal, Toronto, Ottawa and Quebec City have prepared bids and submitted them to the four-man selection committee appointed by the CAHA last November.

Representing Vancouver at today's meeting of the selection committee are Alderman Ed Sweeney, representing the city; Denny Wilson, chairman of Vancouver's World Hockey Tournament Committee, and Bus Evans, manager of the Pacific Coliseum.

Could be more. Vancouver's delegation is prepared to offer $500,000 plus a split of any receipts over that amount if Vancouver is allowed to stage the complete tournament — 30 games in a round-robin competition between six nations.

Rivalry among the cities seeking to become the tournament site is extremely keen. Reports are that Mayor Gilles Lamontagne of Quebec City, Jean Drapeau of Montreal, Don Reid of Ottawa and Stephen Juba of Winnipeg will head delegations from their cities.

GIVEN GOOD CHANCE
Vancouver, with the newest and largest (15,000 seats) arena in Canada, and Montreal, where the Forum is to be enlarged and renovated before 1970, are reported to be favorites to win selection.

Both could be chosen, many observers feel, that it's possible that the tournament will be split between two cities.

Graham Leads Crosby Meet Jacobs, Hill Close with 69s

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Lou Graham dropped six birdies in a four-under-par 68 and first-round lead Thursday in the $104,500 Bing Crosby golf tournament.

His first birdie and wound up the day one stroke ahead of Tommy Jacobs and Dave Hill, who had 69s, and two ahead of Johnny Pott.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus remained in strong contention with a 71, but Arnold Palmer went to 76 with a two-over-par on the fifth hole and went one over on the next two. He twice missed putts of a foot.

George Knudson of Toronto shot a 36-37-73. Graham, followed his bird on the second with a 20-footer on the third and added two more birdies at the eighth and ninth with putts of three and 12.

Victoria Skaters Finish Near Top

VANCOUVER — Paul Fisher edged fellow Victorian David MacDonald for third place in the novice men's competition Thursday at the Canadian Figure Skating Championships.

Steven Sugar of Toronto, leader after the compulsory figures, had little trouble in winning the event with 385.6 points when MacDonald, who trailed by 11.8 points going into the free skating, and Tony Michael of North Vancouver, third after the compulsory section, both fell during their performances Thursday.

MacDonald and Michael were considered better free skaters than Sugar. Raymond Naismith, also of Toronto, finished second with 368.1 points.

Fisher, who was fifth after the compulsory figures, scored 3.2 fewer points than MacDonald but was awarded third place under the complicated scoring system because he received more third-place votes.

Swedish Suspension To End Olajos Case

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — The Swedish Ice Hockey Federation said Thursday it is dropping the case of defenceman Bob Olajos of Kingston Aces, who was suspended for the last two games of the Canadian team's Swedish tour.

The Swedish body suspended Olajos, a 26-year-old native of Montreal, following a wild incident game between Kingston and the Swedish Vaestara team in Stockholm Sunday.

A free-for-all broke out late in the third period and police swarmed onto the ice to restore order.

The Kingston side was leading 7-3 when the game was ended with about five minutes of play left.

Wayne Farmer, with 17 points, and Jordan Ellis, with 16, paced Farmers in the game which became quite rough in the second half.

Lusk Tomlinson and Ken McCaskell of Lions and Ellis of Farmers fought out.

It took 22 games but Red Lion Inn finally won a game in the Victoria Senior Men's Basketball League last night at Lansdowne Junior High School.

Lions almost didn't make it, but Danny Adair's basket with seconds remaining gave them a 69-68 victory over fourth-place Farmer Construction.

Colony Inn upset league-leading Coffee Macs, 78-70, in the other game as the winner broke a second-place deadlock with the idle Labatts and moved to within four points of the losers.

Farmer led, 28-25, at half-time but had no match for Adair in the second half as the newcomer hit for 18 of his 20 points, mostly from the outside.

Two players fouled out in the second game, but the loss by Coffee Macs of Darrell Lorimer with eight minutes left to play was the most costly.

Macs were ahead, 38-34, at half time and Lorimer led the losers with 19 points before leaving. Jim Cunningham paced the winners with 26 points while Bob Kidd got most of his 17 points from the outside.

 Legion vs. Molson.

Victoria Rawlings of the Inter-City Women's Basketball League haven't had a league game for more than a month and have to wait another week before meeting Vancouver Mt. Pleasant in a crucial two-game series.

However, Rawlings will get in some needed action this week-end when they compete in the Thunderette Tournament at University of British Columbia.

They will compete against University of Victoria Vikettes, Vancouver Molsons, Mt. Pleasant, Seattle Scotties, Central Washington State College, Prince George and UBC Thunderettes, the league leaders who were upset, 42-41, by Molsons in a league game Wednesday.

Snow conditions are making it pretty rugged hiking for steelheaders these days, but this is the kind of weather that separates the men from the boys. If you can take it, the steelhead are there for the taking. . . at least in some rivers.

Unfortunately, this snow and cold weather didn't come hard on the heels of high water. It crept up gradually and some of the rivers were already low. They have been stabilized at low water and that doesn't provide ideal steelheading conditions.

But, there are rivers like the Cowichan and the Gold which are pretty hot just now and rivers like the Campbell, the Puntledge and Big Qualicum are flow-controlled and usually in good shape.

With brother Fred and nephew Leonard, we hit the Cowichan at daybreak Sunday after fighting a blizzard all the way from Langford. There was less than two inches of snow when we hit up the Skutz Falls trail and seven inches when we tramped back. Early as we were, we weren't the first on the river.

Every road leading to fishing holes showed car tracks in the beam of our headlights.

It was pretty tough fishing. It was snowing so hard we couldn't see our lure landing in the water. More fell on us as we fished under trees overhanging the river. But that is steelheading.

Even more typical of steelheading, we returned with no fish, although we had two on and brother Fred turned another.

Downstream, we ran into Ian Sutherland, who had just lost a steelhead. And he had more bad news. Last fall, he caught an aluminum boat upstream from Skutz Falls. When he returned Sunday to pick it up and try a little river float it was gone. If there is any reader who knows anything about this boat we would be glad to pass the information along, or you could reach Ian through Bucky Kennett at Bucky's Sport Shop in Duncan.

Just below Ian, Stan Stewart, on his first steelheading trip, had just lost another steelhead which took his spin 'n' glo, headed downstream, and kept going.

But not all Cowichan River steelheaders have been losers. There have been plenty of steelhead coming from the Cowichan, all the way from the Riverbottom down to below the Silver Bridge. Biggest we have heard about is Earl Bratvold's 15-pounder, taken below the White Bridge.

The Cowichan is on the high side and in what might be described as perfect steelheading condition. Koksilah is low, but producing.

Stan Wells returned this week from a Gold River trip with Tim Timmons, and they caught six steelhead in the Canyon area ranging from 12 to 13 pounds.

Steelheading in the Gold is hot, but think twice about heading up there now. The road is reported "terrible."

There is plenty of crusty snow along the banks of the Englishman, Little Qualicum and Big Qualicum. Fishing is difficult but these rivers are producing.

In the Campbell River area, most of the pressure is on the flow-controlled Campbell, but snow makes it difficult to reach the fishing spots. The Quinsam and Oyster are low. Nanaimo is low. Sooke is low. San Juan and Harris Creek are low, but there are plenty of steelhead in the Harris Creek pools.

Saanich Inlet fish appear to have moved around and the Stone House, Deep Hole and bottom end of Finlayson Arm have been hot spots for winter springs. Brentwood end is good, but not as hot as it has been. Jim Gilbert has been getting winter springs in Indian Bay on strip and minnow and flasher, fished deep, almost scraping the sandy bottom. The big bites apparently flushed the herring out of Tod Inlet and the herring seemed to settle deep in other spots, with the salmon following.

Duck activity recently would indicate the herring bait is moving back into Tod Inlet. This could be a big weekend for Saanich Inlet. Art Hall has been getting winter springs up to 19.2 pounds by fishing the last 20 minutes of daylight between his docks and Goldstream Island. Alf Lohr picked up a 19-pounder in those waters Sunday on a Tomick plug.

Sidney waters have been producing well around the Spit and Coal Island and off Swartz Bay. Oak Bay is still providing some fine winter spring fishing and too many grise.

Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association annual general meeting banquet and dance will be held at the Ingraham Hotel, Jan. 27. Reservations must be made before Jan. 25.

Chinook Club will hold another Saanich Inlet Froshbite derby Sunday, Jan. 21, from dawn to 2 p.m.

Doug Dye's 18.4-pounder won the VSIAA trophy for December. Lil Walton won the women's trophy with a 15.14-pounder and John Gordon the junior trophy with a 16.14-pounder.

Hidden weight winners were Tony Rosin, Jeff Mair, Win Rose and Cyril Robbins.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia

(AP) — Eleven Yugoslav soccer teams have demanded a total of $151,000 from American professional soccer clubs as compensation for the loss of Yugoslav players.

In a combined announcement

Thursday, the Yugoslav teams said 17 of their players had been signed by U.S. clubs and they were entitled to payments of between $3,000 and $15,000 for

Neither the U.S. clubs nor the

M. Kauffman, who started his $130,000,000 drug firm 18 years ago in the basement of his home, was named Kansas City's new baseball owner by the American League Thursday.

"I've talked to three or four top men who want to be executive vice president of the club," he said.

"We will announce a board of directors—all Kansas Citizens—about next Tuesday.

"Then the board will interview the men I've talked to and choose an executive vice president, who will run the ball club."

The league had granted Kansas

City a 1969 expansion franchise to replace Charles O. Finley's

Oakland Athletics.

Kauffman was the only applicant

which the league prefers.

Joe Cronin, league president, said Kauffman was the choice

Opening Volley Tonight For Pearson Position

HALIFAX (CP) — An opening volley in the race for leadership of the federal Liberal party may be fired here today and Saturday by seven actual or potential candidates for Prime Minister Pearson's job.

The setting is the Nova Scotia Liberal Association's annual meeting during which at least one possible candidate is expected to declare himself, and others enunciate their policies.

Six of 10 possible candidates invited by the association confirmed their intentions to attend by Thursday afternoon.

Health Minister MacEachen is expected to announce his candidacy at a banquet tonight. He was the first cabinet minister to accept the association's invitation even before Mr. Pearson announced his resignation last month. Because he is Nova Scotia's representative in the cabinet it was not considered significant.

TAKING PART

Eric Kierans, former Quebec revenue minister and Quebec Liberal Federation president, announced his candidacy Tuesday in Montreal. He is to address a luncheon Saturday.

Other possible candidates taking part in Saturday's program will be External Affairs Minister Martin, Finance Minister Sharp, Agriculture Minister Greene and Rev. Lloyd Henderson, former mayor of Portage la Prairie, Man., the first declared candidate.

A Liberal spokesman said Consumer Affairs Minister Turner and Transport Minister Hellyer, who announced his candidacy Thursday, were clearing their schedules so they could be here Saturday. However, Mr. Hellyer's executive assistant, William Lee, said in Ottawa the minister was committed for the weekend and could not attend the Halifax meetings.

BRIEF STAY

Trade Minister Winters was expected to arrive Saturday morning and leave in the afternoon.

Winters was said to be coming "as a former Nova Scotia minister." "He doesn't want to be considered as a candidate or a potential candidate with the others," a party official said.

Justice Minister Trudeau and Manpower Minister Marchand will not attend. They declined because of "commitments outside the country."

The prospect of meeting potential leadership candidates has swelled expected attendance at the annual meeting to almost 600 from the normal 175.

Nova Scotia will have up to 136 official delegates at the leadership convention in Ottawa April 4-6.

Group of B.C. Liberals Backs Hellyer's Bid

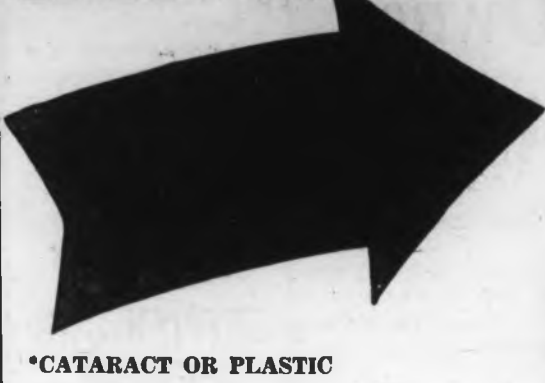

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lawyer George van Roggen, chairman of the B.C. Liberal party's 1965 federal election campaign committee in this province, said Thursday he is chairman of a committee of B.C. Liberals supporting Paul Hellyer's national leadership bid.

Other committee members are B.C. Liberal Association president Sam Dumaresq, B.C. Young Liberals director Gerry Lenoski, Vancouver businessman Ed Keate, party field organizer F. G. Higgs and public relations men Ben Metcalfe and Stuart Wilson.

Guinness pulls this off five million times a day

How's that for openers?

Why do people drink five million glasses of Guinness daily? Well, it could be Guinness' delightful touch of bitterness. Or that rich, creamy texture. Or perhaps its deep ruby colour. This old Irish brew is unique. Constantly unique. Now in British Columbia, Guinness is available where beer is sold and enjoyed. So why don't you discover the brew that tastes like no other on earth. Just for a change.

Public Spending May Be Probed

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal and provincial governments may ask an independent body to study public spending proposals and predict their economic impact, Finance Minister Sharp said Thursday.

Support for this initiative in co-ordinating government policies emerged in the final hours of Mr. Sharp's two-day meeting with provincial finance ministers.

An unidentified province suggested the idea. Both levels of government will explore implications before ministers meet again.

Mr. Sharp said the main thing would be to find some body "outside the control of governments."

The finance ministers also reached a consensus in favor of extending present tax-collection agreements pending Ottawa's decision on a thorough-going tax reform.

But the meeting concluded without any new deals on tax-sharing or on medical care insurance, a subject tackled in detail at Thursday's session. Provinces repeated that the program is too expensive to be undertaken now.

Mr. Sharp said only that he would report provincial objections to the cabinet. The finance minister said the same thing after last November's meeting with the provinces.

Only Saskatchewan asked Thursday for implementation of the federal plan as scheduled July 1. Both Ontario and Quebec were strongly opposed to a start in 1968.

Manitoba Treasurer Gurney Evans repeated a plea for a voluntary and selective medical care plan. But he said if provincial residents are taxed for a national scheme, Manitoba would have "no option but to go in."

Mr. Sharp told reporters several provinces will not join the federal plan July 1 under any circumstances. He could not say whether this meant a majority. Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick have declared themselves out for 1968 at least.

"My only objective in all this is to find the best way, considering the financial circumstances, to make medicare effective," Mr. Sharp said.

"I have no objection to medicare as such. My intention is to see medicare introduced in such a way as to see that medicare is a success."

Several provinces suggested gradual implementation of the insurance, covering specific groups. It would take a lawyer to say whether the existing federal legislation could cover such a "phasing-in," Mr. Sharp said.

The federal finance minister said this had been the first meeting at which the provinces had frankly disclosed their budgeting plans.

Native Sons of B.C. Post No. 1's first minute book, dating back 69 years, was examined Thursday night by James Bland, 93, of 1049 Richmond, last remaining charter member of lodge, during presentation of life membership. One of first babies to be christened in historic Reformed Church of Our Lord, at Blanshard and Humboldt, Mr. Bland was post treasurer for 15 years and Law Society's long-time librarian. Shown with him are Garnet Young, past historian, left, and Dick Creech, past chief factor.—(William E. John)

Saanich Nods Approval Of Seniors' Building

Final plans for Saanich's senior citizens' centre on Hampton Road were approved by the special projects committee Thursday afternoon. Cost of the building is estimated at $102,705.

"It looks like a warm, inviting structure," said Coun. Edith Gunning, committee chairman. "I'm quite excited about it."

Architect John Di Castri told the meeting that working drawings and specifications would be completed in seven weeks.

"We hope to call tenders by the beginning of March," Mrs. Gunning said. "All the rooms will have natural lighting," she continued. "It will be well lighted and cheerful."

The exterior stresses a residential character, the architect said in his final report, and there is extensive use of cedar shingles, both on the roof and walls. These are contrasted with a light-colored stucco in other areas, with masonry around the entrance for contrast and a feeling of solidity.

The windows will be full length in the lounge and activity areas. The lounge will have a sloping ceiling with wood-finished walls. There will be a variation in ceiling height to reflect the different uses of the various areas.

The kitchen will be large enough in plan to accommodate modern kitchen equipment eventually.

'Which Is the Obscenity?'

By STEVE HUME

The British Columbia educational system was accused of teaching racism by an Indian spokesman at the University of Victoria Thursday.

Mrs. Diana Recalma, outspoken chairman of the Vancouver Island Tribal Federation's welfare committee, spoke to almost 100 students in a lunch-hour address. Her lecture, the university's first political science forum in the new year, dealt with the government responsibility in Indian affairs.

"The major problem we face now is the re-education of the other 99 per cent of the people in Canada," she said.

'PURE GARBAGE'

Because of school history books which present an image which is "pure garbage," many Canadians have a view of the Indian which is largely distorted, Mrs. Recalma said.

"I can't blame people for their attitudes toward the Indian, because they learned them from school history books which are garbage."

"At present I'm amassing quite a collection of school books from British Columbia which teach race hatred," she said.

GRADE 12 OR 5?

"Which is the obscenity? A four-letter word in Grade 12, supposedly the threshold of maturity, or the obscenity of race hatred in a Grade 5 reader? In Grade 5, children's minds are still being formed."

She said this kind of distorted history was particularly destructive to the Indian child attending school and finding himself depicted in the history books as a vicious savage.

"Re-education is the job. We have to get together and rewrite history, not as it is in the books but as it happened."

She said miserable and depressing housing conditions also caused related problems and obstacles for Indians, such as alcoholism and damage to the family, a difficulty faced by many.

"I believe if the housing was better, the alcoholic problem would decline."

"The only way an Indian can build a home is to have a private income, and that's hard for a man with a Grade 4 to 8 education," Mrs. Recalma said.

ADULT EDUCATION

She said some kind of adult education program should be initiated to enable the Indian to compete on the labor market with better educated white workers, and eventually to begin to re-establish an Indian economy.

Following her lecture she made an answer to Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing, who attacked a controversial brief presented the governmental branch by Mrs. Recalma's committee. "Mr. Laing says the brief is grossly exaggerated and riddled from his files."

'Sick Sensationalism'

Philip Paul, chief of the Tsartlip Indian band at Brentwood, Thursday accused Quilicum Indian spokesman Diana Recalma of "sick sensationalism" for her attack on Indian residential schools.

Mr. Paul, 33, who attended a residential school, said Mrs. Recalma's generalized allegations of sexual abuse of Indian girls did more harm than good.

Mrs. Recalma, a white, is the wife of the chief of the Quilicum band, and chairman of an Indian welfare committee.

Earlier this week she charged:

"It's open season on Indian girls. Indian girls in residential schools, 12 and 13 years old, have been made pregnant, and their parents haven't even been notified."

Mr. Paul, who is also a student counsellor at the Institute of Adult Studies, replied Thursday:

"I take exception to the statement by Mrs. Diana Recalma in regard to Indian boarding schools."

"This generalization and sick sensationalism is far more damaging than any constructive results that may or may not accrue as the result of this type of publicity."

He added: "On the other hand, I wholeheartedly agree that the Indian boarding school system does not measure up to the family needs of the individual child."

City Man Given Two Posts

University of Victoria economist Dr. Derrick Sewell has been appointed to two national agencies concerned with water resources research.

One appointment adds him to the National Advisory Committee on Water Resources Research. A second places him on the Universities Council on Water Resources, a U.S. group that previously had no Canadian membership.

He will attend his first council meeting in Washington, D.C., Jan. 28 and 29.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yours! It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT

The breeding of new roses is big business nowadays, with many firms both on this continent and abroad engaged in the effort to produce better, stronger, healthier and more beautiful flowers.

The great French firm of Meilland, for instance, raises upward of 10,000 seedlings per year in the hope of getting two or three new roses sufficiently different or sufficiently improved to warrant giving them names and putting them on the market; the rest are scrapped or used as parents for further breeding experiments.

This is going on all over the world. Neils Poulsen of Denmark, Tantau and Kordes in Germany, Sam McGredy of Northern Ireland, the bewhiskered Harry Wheatcroft in Britain and dozens of others will all have new roses on the market this spring, together with the introductions of the big American rose breeders such as Jackson & Perkins and Armstrong, Brothers. At a conservative estimate, there will be between 100 and 125 new roses named and registered this year.

With all these newcomers to choose from, plus all the grand old-timers still on the market, how does a would-be rose grower select the best?

The American Rose Society tackled this problem in a highly practical way some years ago by setting up test gardens in various parts of the country for growing and evaluating new roses. There are 24 of these official trial grounds representing every climate and soil condition likely to be encountered.

Roses submitted for trial are known to the judges only by a coded number, very much like the gladiolus trials described in this column recently. The plants are scored and rated over a period of two years, taking into account not only the beauty and form of the flower itself, but such qualities as hardiness, character of foliage, resistance to disease, pests and weather. When all judges' reports are in, each rose is given a rating whereby its qualities can be compared with its competitors and with the ratings of older roses.

Each year, a few of the highest-rated new roses are chosen for a special honor known as the All-America Rose Selection; these elite roses are patented in the U.S. — we have no plant patents in Canada — and are marketed with a special AARS tag, usually at premium prices. During the 26 years this test program has been running, only 72 roses have qualified for this high honor. Three new roses have been chosen as 1968 All-America award winners, bringing the total in the rose aristocracy up to 75. One of the new award winners is a hybrid tea, one a floribunda and one a grandiflora rose.

The hybrid tea, which has been named Miss All American Beauty, is generating considerable excitement among the experts, many of whom are saying it is the best new rose since Peace. It was bred by the House of Meilland of Cap d'Antibes, France; her mother is the well-known Chrysler Imperial and her father a seedling of Independence and Peace. The flower is large, cup-shaped, and in a singularly clear and vivid shade of pink, sweetly fragrant.

Europeans is the new floribunda, bred by Gerrit de Ruiter of Holland and with Rosemary Rose and Leuwerik as parents. The plant makes a rather broad, mounded bush, bearing immense clusters of cardinal red flowers throughout the summer and fall.

Scarlet Knight is the first truly red grandiflora rose to win an all-American award. This one, too, comes from the House of Meilland, with Sutter's Gold as the pollen parent and an unnamed cross between Independence and Happiness as the seed parent. It makes a strong and vigorous bush bearing small clusters of large, showy blooms in velvety scarlet.

JACK SMITH Longs for Elusive Nectar

Marriage Fine; Coffee Isn't

Today's television commercials will suggest to future historians that one of our quaint institutions — marriage — depended on soap, mouthwash and good coffee.

Nonsense. I have been married for many years and can say I have rarely had a good cup of coffee at home.

We have tried everything in coffee makers — the filter type, the dipulator, the vacuum and the percolator. We have switched brands. Neither new pots nor new labels make any difference. Our coffee is all right, but it is not superb.

In the TV commercials this situation would bring tears and probably divorce. Not at our house. As I have always said, tears won't help a bad cup of coffee.

It may be that my standards are too high. In my youth I made coffee professionally. I worked in the coffee pantry of an ocean liner on the Australia run. It was my job, every morning, fair days and foul, to make coffee for several hundred passengers.

I made coffee in a great silver urn — 10 or 20 gallons, I suppose it held. Despite the large quantity, the rolling of the ship, the frantic speed of my labors, my coffee was, if I may say so, superb.

Many a passenger sent word down to the galley: "My compliments to the coffee chef," not knowing, of course, that the person responsible for this exquisite beverage was a mere scullion, a lad who was paid $60 a month for his talent and slept in the ship's "glory hole" with the lowest of the galley slaves.

I never knew the reason for my success. I was taught how to make coffee by the pantry chief, a Chinese who drank nothing but tea. Nor can I remember how I did it, except that I did put salt in the grounds and filtered the coffee through fresh egg shells.

That was all right for 1,000 cups of coffee. Somehow it doesn't work for a small pot. Apparently I have lost the knack of filtering the brew through egg shells, and the coffee tastes salty.

Years ago, not long after the war, we had an aluminum drip pot that miraculously made good coffee. I don't know where we got it. Probably the dime store. It was inexpensive, as I remember, and plain. It was unpretentious. But it made good coffee.

Then one year we moved up to an electric percolator and gave the old pot to Goodwill or put it in the garbage. By the time we realized we had made a dreadful mistake, it was gone forever.

Not long ago I bought a pot that looked like it, but it never made a decent cup of coffee. One day I left it empty on the electric plate and found it melted, literally melted. It was sinking into the burner like a battleship going down at sea.

We now have a ceramic pot, but it won't make good coffee either.

Sometimes I think it's the atmosphere. Maybe the barometric pressure is too high at our place, or too low. The best coffee I have ever had was always on ships at sea, where the pressure is high. On the other hand, I have had some great coffee in the mountains.

We used to boil it over an open fire in an empty coffee can. The smell of boiling coffee wafted out over the whole camp, mingling with the scent of pine and juniper, and frying bacon. The coffee was always steaming hot and we drank it out of enameled tin mugs that burned our lips and fingers, and it was superb.

Maybe it was the atmosphere, after all. Or the way we cooked it in a can, in the outdoors. Or maybe it was just more wonderful to wake up in the mornings then.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

It Adds Up to Money

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — The talk that Debbie Reynolds and George Hamilton will take over in Living Free, where Virginia McKenna and Bill Travers left off in Born Free was termed "ridiculous," by producer Carl Foreman. The explosive echoed my sentiments exactly. Why don't Virginia McKenna and her husband Bill do the sequel? They've had it with the lions, I was told. This could be true.

To be sure, the beast of the Joy Adamson best seller would not eat them for breakfast, tea and dinner. The Travers used to get up at six every morning and play with them to get them in an adoring mood for the cameras, but it didn't always work, though. As you remember, a lion gave Virginia a hefty shove during the first week of filming and broke her leg.

Actually, it is a question of pounds, shillings and pence — pre-valuation. Virginia and Bill were paid only $25,000 each because originally the film was to be a documentary. It turned out to be a huge money-maker and the stars feel aggrieved. Up the ante and I'm sure they'll return to Africa and take their chances again with the roaring lions.

Talking of money, not only is Sidney Poider becoming a millionaire from To Sir, with Love, but you can say the same for director James Clavell, and for the author of the book, U.S. ambassador to Guyana, E. R. Braithwaite — all on percentages.

Sidney was telling me that, like a few of us, he is self-educated. "I learned most from reading the newspapers and listening to the radio when I was a boy." When you do it yourself, it usually sticks. To Sir, with Love, not so incidentally, is the biggest money-maker of the film year, I read in Variety. "And," an executive at Columbia told me, "it could be the biggest money-maker of all time for the studio." The title song, belted by wide-eyed singer Lulu, could very well walk off with the Oscar.

The stories you hear about Robert Mitchum in Europe! During his recent Villa Rides in Spain, Robert dressed himself in full armor-plate, stopped at a bar for a drink, and when the barman stared at him — a natural reaction — Robert demanded, "What's the matter? Haven't you ever seen a member of the American armed forces?"

The Keeper-Uppers

SYDNEY HARRIS

I have a dear old friend whom I don't see more than once or twice a year, because he lives in a different part of the country. The other morning the mail brought a postcard from him.

He had been flying and thought of me, scribbled a card and mailed it when his plane landed. It was just a friendly note of hello — but it was something I never would have done.

Friendships should be kept up like fences, I suppose, and some persons are extraordinarily good at this. They remember birthdays and anniversaries, they send congratulations for promotions and good wishes when you move into a new house.

And at Christmas they get off long chatty letters, letting you know what has happened to them all year, how the children are faring, and what old school friends they have heard from lately. I appreciate such people, but they make me feel ashamed of myself, because I am not a keeper-upper.

When my eldest daughter was at University for four years — one of them in Italy, in fact — I don't think I wrote twice a year. I never just call someone on the phone, for no reason whatsoever — which is the best reason, really, as all women instinctively know.

It is not even a question of being "self-sufficient." I am no more self-sufficient than anybody else — just lazy and remiss. It is somehow easier for me to sit down and write three columns than to write a one-page letter to a friend across the country.

It sounds ridiculous coming from a professional writer, but I never know what to say.

I rationalize away this sloth by telling myself that friendship really doesn't depend on "keeping in touch." And for persons like myself, it happens to be true enough: I can have lunch with a friend I haven't seen for two or three years, and the thread is taken up again just where it was left off. Or so I like to think. It would be forced and out of character for me to dash off little notes to friends all over the country and the globe — just as it is very much in character for my friend to mail me a postcard during his plane touch-down. He is behaving like the human being he is, and I am behaving like the shooak I am. At least it's an honest relationship.

And your real friends, of course, accept this about you, and don't resent your lack of reciprocity in correspondence. Those who sulk or grieve about it don't understand you very well, and are more impressed with the tangible forms of friendship than its spiritual core. I've got a powerful, pulsating spiritual core — it just never learned how to write or pick up a phone, that's all.

Canada Pouring Millions Down Foreign 'Rat Hole'

By MARK DICKINSON

Canada is pouring millions of dollars every year into underdeveloped countries and it isn't helping anybody, according to Professor Charles Burchill.

Canada has no intention of aiding recipients in bilateral foreign aid programs, but seeks only to promote its own interests, and even this is failing, said the Royal Roads history professor.

"Most of the foreign aid we give is simply being poured down a rat hole," he told 34 members of the Victoria Branch of the United Nations Association.

He said Canada had only four motives for providing foreign aid:

To contribute to world peace; prosecution of the cold war through generosity; stabilization of the country's economy in cases of deflation or inflation, and expansion of Canada's export trade.

"All of these considerations are purely selfish. The Canadian government exists to serve the interests of the Canadian voter, not the interests of the people of India or Barbados."

He said the same motives were held by all other countries providing foreign aid.

But, Prof. Burchill said, aid will not accelerate the development of the underdeveloped countries, nor will it enlarge the export and investment opportunities for business interests in the donor countries.

"The aid will not relieve misery in the very poor nations; it will only prolong it. And it will not enhance the prospects for peace; it will simply alter the reasons for which wars are likely to take place."

He refused to say if Canada should halt the program.

"The money has done some good. After all, we don't have quite as big a mess as we might have had if aid had not been given."

He predicted a "considerable reduction" in the program.

Prime reason for the usefulness of the millions of dollars going to poor nations was that it was invested in "show pieces... not anything of real value."

He said the only way to funnel funds into worthwhile causes would be through technical administration run by experts in the United Nations.

"For so long as development aid is provided under bilateral agreements, inevitably and properly designed to promote the interests of the donor countries, I think we are safe in concluding that nearly all foreign aid programs are bound to fail.

Burchill

"I doubt if any disease responds favorably to treatment designed solely to meet the convenience of the doctor."

Prof. Burchill noted both Russia and Western powers were involved in "the use of aid as a lever to force recipient countries to conform to the wishes of donor countries."

"Russia cut off all aid to China in 1958, recalling the Russian engineers and their blueprints and leaving projects half finished, just as ruthlessly as the United States cancelled the offer to build Egypt's Aswan Dam."

"National governments are the trustees of the national interest."

"Only the United Nations could serve as a trustee of a world interest, but with nearly a billion of the world's people excluded from any representation in the UN and with no machinery for asserting any control over the world's resources, even the UN is hardly in a position to act as a trustee for mankind."

Buy a Volvo Canadian, keep it a long time, and get out from under car payments for a change.

What's a long time? Eleven years is a long time. That's how long Volvos are driven in Sweden, where there are no speed limits on the highways and there are 70,000 miles of unpaved roads.

How long will a Volvo last in Canada? We don't know yet. Volvos have only been here nine years. But if you had a Volvo compact and kept it half that eleven years you could spend your money on something besides car payments. And you'd save money on gas, too. Volvos get 30 miles to the gallon even with automatic transmission. Come in any time and test drive one.

Operation Air Show Back on Earth

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. (CP) — The Canadian Armed Forces' Golden Centennaires, busiest aerobatic team in Canadian aviation history, folds its wings today.

The jet aerobics who performed 101 shows were to mark their disbandment quietly on the ground at the prairie base where they were formed about 20 months ago.

Marking the occasion will be an inspection, march past and presentation of medals to seven members of the team.

The Centennaires were formed as part of the Canadian Armed Forces' contribution to Canada's centennial observances. They marked the golden anniversary of military flight in Canada.

During their six months of operations, between April and November, the 70-man team of all-weather and support elements criss-crossed Canada three times, logging more than 34,000 miles in transit alone.

Commanded by Wing Cmdr. O. B. Philp of Sidney, the team flew four types of aircraft ranging from 80-mile-an-hour machines to others capable of slicing through the skies at twice the speed of sound.

Mainstay of the show was the RCAF's Tutor jet trainer, six of which performed as a team and two as soloists. Two other aircraft were the super-sonic CF-101B Voodoo interceptor and CF-104 Starfighter.

But the favorite of the show was an aircraft that out-matched all of the pilots in age. It was a 1918-vintage AVRO 504K biplane trainer last used in RCAF service in 1928.

Led in the air by Sqdn. Ldr. C. B. Lang, 30, of Creston, B.C., the repertoire of the Centennaires included formation take-offs and landings, loops, splits, cross-overs, corkscrew rolls, flip flops and bomb bursts.

Two pilot fatalities occurred during the team's training stage, but after hitting the centennial exhibition circuit they chalked up a record of only one minor mishap in the air and none on the ground.

Only two shows were cancelled during their cross-country itinerary—one at Fort Albert, because of smoke from forest fires and another because of weather conditions at Grande Prairie, Alta.

In addition to the 101 Canadian shows, the Centennaires also performed at eight locations in the United States.

Major Canadian performances included opening and closing ceremonies for Expo 67; the Canadian National and Pacific National exhibitions and the opening of the Pan-American Games in Winnipeg.

Courtroom Parade

'Belligerency' Overlooked

A youth with a "belligerent" manner found mercy for the second time in eight months in central magistrate's court Thursday.

"I would appreciate it if you didn't glare at me and adopt that belligerent attitude," Magistrate William Oster told 19-year-old William Terrell at one point in his trial for vagrancy.

Terrell, who came to Victoria from Oakville, Ont., on Feb. 21, 1967, had given arresting officers 38 Camden as his address when he was arrested at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in Centennial Square.

Evidence showed the address was a half-garage with one bed, occupied by four young men and described by Magistrate Oster as "a warren, which is the only word which can properly be applied to it."

The magistrate found Terrell had been living "a life of aimlessness and of ruthlessness," subsisting on the largesse of others.

"If I am a vagrant, it seems to me the Victoria police have made me one," Terrell told the court.

'SO I DID'

He claimed a Victoria policeman had told him "to stick around," pending analysis of some pills found on his person in a routine search Jan. 3, "so stick around I did."

Magistrate Oster said it would have been a simple matter for him to check with the police if he had been in doubt about the necessity of staying in Victoria.

Magistrate Oster said he wanted Terrell to understand that his appearance made no difference in his arrest. The slightly-built youth had shoulder-length hair, a pencilled mustache, long sideburns and a wispy chin whisker.

LIVE ANYWHERE

"Because a package doesn't look enticing doesn't mean the contents are bad," the magistrate said.

He suggested Terrell return to his home in Oakville, although he stressed that the youth could live anywhere he wished in Canada, since he is a Canadian.

He suspended sentence and bound Terrell over on his own recognizance in the amount of $100 to keep the peace for one year. Terrell had received a suspended sentence for the same offence last June.

Freddie Charlie, 25, of Brentwood Bay was remanded to Jan. 17 for a sentence when he pleaded guilty to breaking into Don's Food Market at 99 Menzies early Wednesday morning.

The evidence showed Charlie and an accomplice had broken a plate glass window and stolen $67 worth of merchandise, leaving $25 worth of cheese and meats on the sidewalk outside the store.

Gordon Charles, 21, of 7 Cooper, who pleaded guilty Wednesday, will also be sentenced Jan. 17.

John W. C. Shea of 10542 McDonald Park Road, Sidney, received a suspended sentence for the theft of money from an open safe in a hotel where he was working at the time.

Magistrate Oster said intoxication and family difficulties had presented a "combination of circumstances which this man was not strong enough to resist."

He bound Shea over on his own recognizance in the amount of $500 for one year.

G. E. Holt of Holt Oil Burner Service was fined $40 for installing a gravity fuel oil burning furnace in Mais Furniture and Appliances at 1821 Cook in late November.

Mais Furniture pleaded not guilty on a charge of using the furnace for a period from Nov. 27 to Dec. 30, and trial was set for Jan. 17.

The charges arose out of a furnace malfunction that caused soot damage to the store on Dec. 29.

Fined in traffic court for careless driving: Harold Baker, 1711 Ash, $35; Donald Cathcart, 250 Homer, $40.

Irregular Name Enough

SPOKANE (AP)—(I've seen everything now," police detective Alex Selmak said Thursday as he looked over a had cheque that was cashed by a downtown department store.

The cheque was made out for $15.68. It was signed IOU. The bank, returning the cheque to the store, made what probably is the understatement of the year with a two-word report which read: "Signature irregular."

Sidney Leads In Mumps

There were 249 cases of mumps in the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health area in December, according to figures released Thursday.

Sidney was hardest hit, with 57 cases, after which came Saanich 50. Victoria had 41 cases, Oak Bay 33 and Esquimalt 11. There were 23 cases in Sooke and 21 in Central Saanich.

There were 27 cases of chicken pox, 21 of them in Saanich. Streptococcal sore throat hit 19 times, with 11 of the cases in Saanich and two each in Oak Bay, Victoria and Esquimalt.

Only other disease of consequence was infectious hepatitis. Victoria had eight cases and Saanich five.

Mainland Doctor

Term Suspended In Abortion Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. William McKendrick McCallum 58, who pleaded guilty to nine counts of performing abortions, was given a two-year suspended sentence Thursday and placed on a $2,500 peace bond.

Magistrate Maurice Mulligan said it was clear from the evidence of character witnesses that Dr. McCallum was highly respected as a physician and a man.

TWO SUICIDES

The magistrate said police investigation showed the nine women involved had been given the best of medical care and that no physical harm had befallen them.

The court had been told earlier that the suicides of a pregnant 18-year-old girl and her father had driven Dr. McCallum into considering performing abortions.

"Some years ago, a single and beautiful 18-year-old girl came to his office and pleaded with him to abort her," defence lawyer Harold Fisher said.

"She felt that if it was found out that she was pregnant she would be ruined, socially and would bring humiliation to her family."

GIRL, FATHER

"Dr. McCallum refused and pointed out that the ethics of his profession prevented him from assisting her, but she pleaded with him and said that if he didn't she would kill herself."

"He reluctantly refused. That afternoon the young lady committed suicide by taking poison. Then, one month later, her father committed suicide."

Mr. Fisher said that event changed Dr. McCallum's outlook and he then "took the position that where he felt that there was either physical danger to the patient, or where the mental health of the patient may be so involved that this horrible thing (the suicides) might repeat itself, he would lend his skill and knowledge to relieve the physical or mental suffering of his patient."

DOCTOR WEEPS

Dr. McCallum wept after the sentence was imposed and said in a brief interview that he has been advised he will be summoned before a committee of British Columbia medical authorities.

The case came to light when a university student reported to the university hospital about two hours after she was operated on by Dr. McCallum.

Prosecutor Stewart McMorran said police investigation turned up complete files kept by Dr. McCallum on the cases.

'NOT HIDING'

"He was not acting as a sneak, nor trying to hide evidence and cover his trail," Mr. Fisher said. "He acted as he thought a man should do who thought he was doing the right thing."

Mr. Fisher said the provincial medical act provides that anyone convicted of an indictable offence could be stricken from the records of the B.C. Medical College. He also would be stricken from the Canadian and Commonwealth Register and prevented from practising.

Quake-Forecaster In Orbit

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP)—A spacecraft that may help scientists learn how to forecast earthquakes rocketed into orbit Thursday atop a 92-foot Delta-Thor booster.

"All indications are that the orbit is what we wanted," a spokesman said after the vehicle was tracked over South Africa.

Called GEOS 2, the 460-pound U.S. Space Agency vehicle was designed to measure precisely the size and shape of the earth and any shifting of land masses that could precede earthquakes.

The 48-in-diameter craft, and reaching 921 miles into space.

The craft also carried lights and transmitters designed to help scientists improve the accuracy of maps of continents and ocean floors—an advantage in oil drilling and underwater missile launching.

Laser beams are tightly focused rays of powerful light. Triangulation of these beams is expected to give a close fix on the location of ground stations, and any change in these locations would indicate movement of the land on which they rest.

GEOS 2 was aimed at a near-polar orbit lasting 112 minutes.

Garrison Finds Response

LOS ANGELES (LAT)—New Orleans District Attorney Jim Garrison reaped the first positive response Thursday from the recent commotion his investigation into the Kennedy assassination has stirred up in southern California.

Lawrence Howard, 33, of El Monte, accepted a Garrison subpoena as a material witness and said he would be happy to travel to New Orleans, at Louisiana's expense, to appear before a grand jury.

ONLY REASON

But Howard said the controversial DA's assertion that he knows about an assassination conspiracy is so much malarkey and that the only reason he is willing to testify is because "I want to clear my name. I've got nothing to be ashamed of."

Not one other person sought outside Louisiana by Garrison has agreed to set foot in New Orleans where Garrison has unleashed a barrage of charges, which, if true, could shoot down the Warren Report, a document which held that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone.

Nor has any state surrendered any of its residents to Garrison.

Egypt, Israel Swap

GENEVA (Reuters) — The International Red Cross Committee has announced that Egypt and Israel have agreed to a general exchange in the next few days of prisoners taken during the Arab-Israeli war last June.

The all-Swiss committee said Thursday the exchange is to take place under Red Cross supervision on the Suez Canal between El Kantara and Ismailia.

EGYPTIANS LAST

Roger Gallopin, executive director of the committee, said: "This was the result of lengthy negotiations."

"All the other Arab prisoners were repatriated some time ago. The Egyptians are the last to be returned."

He said he expects the exchange to begin Sunday but some prisoners might be exchanged earlier.

The negotiations were complicated, Gallopin said, but he refused to give any details of the discussion which led to the agreement.

TEN PILOTS

At the end of August, the Red Cross said Israel still held 3,503 Egyptian prisoners-of-war and 386 civilians whose return Egypt sought.

Egypt still held 10 Israeli pilots and six civilians requested by Israel, it added then.

In the weeks following the June war, the committee arranged the exchange of wounded prisoners and the repatriation of a number of refugees.

U.S. Deserters

Sweden Gets More

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — A government committee recommended granting asylum for three American GI defectors Thursday. Police later announced three more deserters have come to Sweden to avoid serving in Vietnam.

The new arrivals brought to 16 the number of American deserters believed in Sweden. Eleven, including the last three, have applied for asylum. Unofficial Swedish sources said five are hiding.

SOME MISTAKEN

A U.S. Army spokesman in Germany, from where many of the deserters came, said some were mistaken in their belief they would be sent to Vietnam.

The aliens committee recommended "humanitarian" asylum for William Percell, 21, of Miami, David Michael Halre, 19, Beaufort, S.C., and Edward Kelly Johnson, 21, Cleveland.

MARIJUANA SUSPECT

Johnson has been court-martialed three times for various charges including theft. He was under investigation for suspected use of marijuana.

The leftwing Vietnam committee, which supports the Viet Cong and claims credit for getting many of the defectors into Sweden, said it knows of "dozens of American soldiers who stand ready to defect from Germany and other parts of the world."

Eichmann Aides Arrested

BERLIN (Reuters) — Two former leading officials in Adolf Eichmann's Nazi department for Jewish Questions have been arrested in West Germany and brought to West Berlin, justice department officials said Thursday.

The two men, identified as Otto Hunsche, 56, and Friedrich Bosshammer, 61, were both working as lawyers.

They were arrested on suspicion of abetting in the mass murder of Jews between 1942 and 1944, justice department officials said.

LEGAL QUESTIONS

The officials said that from November, 1941, until May, 1945, Hunsche was responsible in Eichmann's office for legal and property questions and for Jews of foreign nationality living in German-occupied territories.

He was accused of helping in what the Nazis termed the "final solution of the Jewish" — by sending at least 50,000 Jews to certain death in camps.

Bosshammer was responsible for organizational problems of the final solution in preparing the deportations of at least 150,000 people, officials said.

Senate to Seat Students University Follows Trend

Student and administration spokesmen at the University of Victoria welcomed the announcement Thursday that three students will be admitted to the campus senate.

Two undergraduates and one graduate student will be elected to the senate, probably next month.

Ronald Ferry, UVic registrar and secretary of the senate, said the decision to admit students was made unanimously by the senate Wednesday night.

The move was considered inevitable. UVic is the last of B.C.'s three public universities to admit student senators, and administration spokesmen from the chancellor down, had spoken in favor of the step in recent months.

Other universities across Canada have been doing the same thing in response to growing student demands for a voice in academic affairs. The senate decides matters dealing with courses and programs of study. The board of governors decides financial questions.

Dr. Malcolm Taylor called the senate's decision "an excellent move."

"I think it will be applauded by almost all members of the faculty," said the president.

Student council president David McLean and vice-president Frank Fyfe said they were satisfied with the decision for the time being.

Missing Men's Wives Confident

'They'll Be All Right'

By NANCY BROWN

"They'll be found. They'll be all right."

Two Victoria women Thursday evening repeated the statement as if it were a talisman to conjure their husbands back from the remote mountain country where they disappeared Monday.

Consulting engineers Reginald Thurber, 3118 Westdowne, and Harvey Dishaw, 1310 Manor, left Vancouver in a light twin-engine plane Monday, on a 500-mile flight to Edmonton.

Their pilot was 20-year-old Gary Folsie, of Burnaby. Search and rescue officials in Vancouver said Thursday they had continued the search without result, but had been unable to get into the prime search area between Revelstoke, B.C., and Banff National Park, because of poor weather.

The Washington state radar computer centre said it tracked the plane shortly before it disappeared in the region of high mountain peaks.

"Once the weather lifts and they can get into that area the men will be back home, bearded but fine," said Mrs. Hazel Dishaw.

"My husband's an experienced bush man, and he knows how to look after himself."

"Reg. Thurber is a competent man who can manage anything he tackles, and the pilot is excellent," she added. "I know Harvey will be fine. I know he'll be back soon," said Mrs. Dishaw.

She and her two young sons are carrying on their normal life.

"The boys are going to school, and looking forward to seeing their father."

Mrs. Dishaw said the plane carries all possible survival gear, including a two-week supply of food.

"They took along heavy clothing for the Edmonton weather, so there'll be no problem keeping warm," said Mrs. Dishaw.

Mr. Dishaw, she said, translates aerial photographs.

"This means he makes maps from the pictures, and he's often been dropped in the bush to check out his maps."

"He's used to remote country. To snow, and to tramping through bush if necessary. He'll be fine."

She said the young pilot is a member of a flying family. His father is also a pilot.

For Mrs. Margaret Thurber it's been a long time since Monday when the plane was reported missing.

The couple have three teenage children.

"I just know my husband will come back," she said. The pilot is a good boy with a lot of experience."

Everyone is doing their best to find the plane, and I have wonderful neighbors, friends and relatives who have come to help me.

"If you write anything, just say we know he'll be all right."

Water Worry Eases

By A. H. MURPHY

It has been a dry winter and the long-range weather forecast indicates that it will remain so, but Ronald Upward, commissioner of the Greater Victoria Water District, isn't worried.

"It should be remembered that we had about 27 inches of rain on the watershed in October, and the lakes right now are all full. There's about 6,500,000 gallons in storage," Mr. Upward said Thursday.

The commissioner said that he did not expect another crisis such as the district suffered last summer when the longest-lasting lawn sprinkling restrictions were in effect.

Even if there should be a prolonged dry spell, there are several moderating factors.

LESS MONEY

"The use of water is to a very large extent dependent on the economic situation, and I don't think there will be the money around next summer that there was last," Mr. Upward said.

He added that he expected there would be a cutback in consumption in defence department installations here, and Victoria Machinery Depot shipyards, another larger consumer, was closed down.

Meanwhile, the commissioner added, work was going well on the district's five-mile tunnel between Sooke Lake and Japan Gulch in the Goldstream watershed.

DRIVING AHEAD

Miners were driving ahead on the Goldstream end at the rate of about 22 feet a day. On the upper end, where the concreting phase of the project has begun, about 1,000 feet had been coated.

Principal difficulty right now, Mr. Upward said, was getting cement up to the Sooke Lake end of the tunnel over icy roads.

TUNNEL BREAKTHROUGH

He believed that there would be a breakthrough in the tunnel about April.

"And I hope that someone brings us up a bottle of champagne to celebrate," the commissioner said.

Weathership Delayed Two Days

The sailing of the Canadian Coast Guard's $12,000,000 weathership Quadra, has been delayed at least two days because of a holdup in repairs to engine room equipment, officials said Thursday.

The Quadra was originally to leave Victoria today for weather station Papa, but it probably won't get under way until Sunday afternoon, according to district marine agent Larry Slaght.

In preparation for the Sunday sailing, she was expected to go through sea trials off Victoria today.

It will be the first time the 5,400-ton vessel has left Esquimalt Harbor since she came home early in December with engine trouble.

During the past four weeks, crews have made final calibration in her balloon-tracking radar, repaired storm-damaged superstructure and installed a new turbo-generator and turbine shaft coupling.

The holdup was caused because "repairs took longer than planned," Mr. Slaght said. "Nothing has gone wrong. It's just a matter of not getting things done on time."

Largest in Command

Classified Whatsit Brings $700 Award

By DON GAIN

The largest single award in Pacific Command by the Canadian Forces Suggestion Award Program — $700 — was made Thursday to David Larkey, 1106 Newport, communications technician at HMC Dockyard.

A civilian employee, Mr. Larkey designed improvements in the operation of naval communications equipment.

"That's all we can say about it," said his superior, Lt.-Cmdr. J. D. Cairney, senior staff officer communications. "It's classified."

Awarded $50, less tax, Thursday was maintenance machinist G. A. W. Hay of 3069 Admirals, who went to Dockyard 10 years ago as an apprentice. He devised an improvement to a spray paint booth which makes maintenance easier. Acting plant engineer R. E. Jobbins was on hand for the presentation by Capt. F. C. Frewer, base commander of CFB Esquimalt.

Mr. Larkey's net cheque was $380, but he was still pleased.

"I was surprised at the size of it," he said, "but I haven't had time to think about what I'd do with it."

He said his 12-year-old daughter, Kathleen, thought a family trip to San Francisco for Easter would be nice.

"We should really get a new furnace," he said, "but we probably won't do either."

Formerly administered from Ottawa, the suggestions award program was reorganized in 1966 with the formation of 40 command and base committees.

Last year, 1,200 suggestions were submitted across Canada and 436 were adopted with a saving of $985,000 to the government.

F. D. Nelson, employee relations officer at Dockyard, said 420 civilian suggestions had been made here since the initiation of the plan.

A base committee can make an award up to $50, while command committees can go as high as $500. Suggestions with a greater award potential are referred to headquarters.

Some suggestions are pretty funny, Mr. Nelson said, even when practical. He cited one that urged shortening of men's tropical shorts. It won an award.

Another recommended supplying of civilian clothes to servicemen to save wear and tear on uniforms. It didn't win an award.

Suggestions which involve patents are excluded from the Suggestion Award Program. They come under the Public Services Inventions Act, which vests rights in the Crown, but there is a schedule of royalties to be paid to the inventors.

Ross Sea in Drydock

Repairs Launched On Ripped Carrier

The 24,000-ton lumber carrier Ross Sea was moved into the Esquimalt Graving Dock Thursday and is expected to stay there about a month while workers from Yarrows Ltd. repair her ripped hull.

Yarrows general manager John Wallace said about 200 men would be employed during the 30-day job to make the vessel seaworthy. Cost of the job has not been disclosed.

Crews are also stripping down the ship's engine to inspect for salt-water damage.

LONG STRIP

Mr. Wallace said about a 300-foot-by-10-foot length of the hull will be repaired.

Two of the ship's seven holds were flooded when she slammed onto a reef Dec. 29 off Cape Beale at the entrance to Barkley Sound on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

After striking the reef, the 568-foot ship lay at anchor for more than 24 hours before tugs towed her to Esquimalt Harbor. Since then, about 2,000,000 feet of lumber has been cleared from her No. 3 and 4 holds.

ENGINE WATERED?

The engine is being torn down because officials fear salt water that had leaked into a lubricating tank below the engine may have been carried into the engine.

It was the first of two groundings by deep-sea vessels on the B.C. coast in a seven-day period. On Jan. 3, the 9,600-ton Dutch ship Schiedyk ran aground and sank 16 hours later off Bligh Island near Gold River.

Safety Car Scorched

An overstoked coal heater did $500 damage to the interior of an E & N Railway safety classroom on wheels early Thursday. The fire in the railway car parked in the Victoria West yards, used for giving lectures on safety, was quickly extinguished.

Don't Tromp on Gas Pedal Yet

Weather conditions were reported easing Thursday night but police warned motorists to continue using caution as some roads remained slippery.

Only a few minor traffic accidents were reported and there were no injuries in the Greater Victoria area Thursday, police said.

Gonzales weather office said the new sweep of mild weather will take away possibility of snow today. Low forecast for early this morning was 35 and a high later today of 45.

It follows four days of winter conditions when temperatures dropped below the freezing point and a total of 2.2 inches of snow was recorded.

Police reported most Island roads clear of snow but black ice posed a danger in some areas.

Sooke RCMP said driving conditions Thursday night were "the worst of the whole week."

The spokesman said black ice but no snow covered roads. No accidents were reported.

The Malahat was described slippery but chains and snow tires were not required.

In Victoria at the grass level, temperatures are expected to go below the freezing mark for the next several nights, the weather office said.

Stiffer Entry?

UVic Sees '69 Jamup

By BILL STAVDAL

University of Victoria president Dr. Malcolm Taylor warned Thursday that B.C.'s growing campus squeeze may restrict enrolment here in 1969.

"By September, 1969, we will be stretching our facilities to the utmost," said Dr. Taylor.

He added that an expected "unprecedented increase" in enrolment next fall will probably result in emergency measures during the 1968-69 term.

These will probably include lengthening the teaching day, and lectures at noon and on Saturday.

FIRST STEP

By 1969 UVic may have to restrict enrolment, he said.

A possible first step would be raising entrance requirements, which the university wants to avoid, said Dr. Taylor.

Victoria is the only public campus which allows first-year students to enrol with a 50-per cent average on junior matriculation.

60 PER CENT

The University of British Columbia and Simon Fraser University demand a 60 per cent average.

Raising the entrance hurdle is "conceivable," said Dr. Taylor.

"But most of us would be unhappy to see it happen. We feel that a student who graduates from high school should have the opportunity to come to university."

BIG BOOST

Last September 4,075 students enrolled at UVic, an increase of 652, or 19 per cent over the previous year.

The university's prediction turned out to be 175 students short of the actual enrolment.

Forecasting an even greater increase next fall, Dr. Taylor said:

"It is our understanding that the graduating class in Greater Victoria high schools is bigger than ever before."

LAST FALL

Dr. Taylor said the growing reputation of the university and an increasing demand for university education, will bring more students.

Last fall the Economic Council of Canada predicted that university enrolment in Canada will more than double in the next decade.

The Bladen Commission on financing higher education in Canada said that in 1961 about 4 per cent of Canada's 18-24 age group was in university. By 1964 this had risen to 9 per cent.

MORE COMING

It was predicted the ratio would rise to 13 per cent by 1970, and 16 per cent by 1975.

Dr. Carl Hare, president-elect of UBC, recently said that experience suggests the percentage will reach 25 per cent well before the 20th century is ended. The problem at UVic is that enrolment has outstripped construction provided under the campus' current five-year building program.

Victoria Numismatic Society named Donald Mollinson president at a recent election of officers.

Others elected were Sidney Langhelt, vice-president; Ron Greene, secretary; Paul Joncas, treasurer; James Morgan, Mrs. Gladys Brown, Dr. Stuart Kenning and W. J. Waddell, directors.

Snow Cost Already Over Top

City trucks and 18 workmen spread 40 tons of salt on city roads during the last 48 hours, at a cost of $2,000, officials said Thursday.

Although there was only $363 left in the public works department budget for snow removal, the extra money will come out of the 1968 budget which will be cleared in April.

In Saanich and Esquimalt, "several thousand" dollars were spent covering icy roads with sand and salt.

Figures from Oak Bay were not available.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I have had enough of you. I am a 17-year-old boy who thinks your advice to the girl whose steady boyfriend has "wandering hands" is all wet.

Instead of telling the girl to give the eight-handed idiot "a chop in the chops" or however it is you worded it, why don't you put the blame where it belongs — on the girl?

No guy in his right mind ever starts to paw a perfect lady. The chick who suddenly finds a guy's hands all over her has asked for it in one way or another.

Sometimes it's not in words, it's the way a girl gets herself together. The miniskirts are a pretty good eye-ful when a girl is standing up. When she is sitting down, it's like she is wearing a bikini. No normal guy can look at all that flesh and not get ideas.

Transparent blouses and sweaters, and jeans that fit like sausage casings are worn to get guys excited, and when a normal guy gets excited, he wants to do more than just look.

So please, Ann Landers, since you are supposed to give advice, give it to the girls. They are the ones who need it — Tired of being turned on.

Dear Tired: There's a great deal of truth in what you say and I'm glad you took the time to say it. The moral of the story is simply this, girls: don't let your clothes issue any invitations you don't mean to fulfill. When you turn a guy on, he can be awfully hard to turn off.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a school teacher who feels parents in this country need a better understanding of where we fit into the lives of their children. Will you please help by printing this letter?

Teachers generally choose the profession because they care about children.

Teachers try to treat all students alike. If a teacher is usually suspicious of a child, it is because that child has behaved in a way that has caused the teacher to mistrust him.

Teachers do not "give" grades. They only record the quality of the work the student has produced.

Children with good manners and a record for achievement will be given preferential consideration and special honors and privileges.

Teachers grieve almost as much as parents when a student doesn't make the grade. They feel that they have failed the student and it makes them sad because they love all children and want them to succeed. — SOMEONE WHO CARES IN AUSTIN

Dear Someone: The teachers you describe are the GOOD teachers. Although there are a great many more good teachers than poor ones, you must agree that not every teacher measures up to your lofty standards.

Confidential to Can't Stand The Sight of Them: Why are you so vehement? Are you perhaps unsure of your own masculinity? Your six-page diatribe suggests deep hostility that must be rooted in something closer to you than you care to admit. Talk your feelings out with a professional and rid yourself of this unhealthy hostility.

Mrs. Pite Wins Oscar

Mrs. W. A. Ludlow was toastmistress and Mrs. D. E. Pite, topic mistress.

Oscar was awarded to Mrs. Pite and Mrs. G. L. Cook won the spur.

Red Roses In Bride's Bouquet

Baskets of white chrysanthemums decorated Brenwood United Church when Lorraine Helen Shaw and Gary Maxwell Le Marquand exchanged nuptial vows and rings.

Rev. John Wood officiated at the evening ceremony for the daughter of Mrs. Helen Shaw, 6672 Wallace Drive and Mr. Lorne Shaw of Preston, Ont., and the son of Mrs. F. Le Marquand, 254 1/2 Island Highway, and of Mr. D. Le Marquand of Montreal.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. D. Brown, was lovely in her princess style wedding gown of white peau de soie. The dress had self applique embroidery from neckline to hem and the skirt was en train. A white rose and lily of the valley headpiece held her shoulder length veil and she carried a cascade of red roses and fern. For something borrowed and something old she had her grandmother's pearl necklace.

Miss Cheryl Moyer was a bridesmaid for her cousin and she wore a slim, floor length gown of rose organza over taffeta and carried white chrysanthemums and pink ribbon. Marcus Brown, another cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Mr. Douglas Boland was best man and Mr. Kenneth Moyer and Mr. David Lachmund showed guests to the pews. A reception and dance was held in the Strawberry Vale Hall. The bride's table was centred with a three tiered, pink and white cake and pink candles. The cake was decorated by the bride's aunt, Mrs. E. Gault.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Grace Brown and Miss Pat McAlpine, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, Blythe, Ont.; Mr. Douglas Boland, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dierckx, Duncan, Ont.

Chudley-Elliott

Couple Honeymoon on Yacht

Satin streamers and wedding bells with flowers banked against five leaded windows and tall standards filled with white chrysanthemums and carnations on either side formed the setting for the wedding of Nan Loyne Elliott and Richard Frances Chudley.

The Very Rev. J. Lewis W. McLean performed the ceremony for the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. Reid Elliott, 2608 Cavendish Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Chudley, Exeter, Devon, England, at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride chose a short slightly A-line dress of white brocade and matching flared coat with jeweled fastener and stand up collar. Her headpiece was a halo with brocade bow and soft veiling and she carried three poinsettias with pine.

Miss Sandra Superle was the bride's only attendant and she wore an A-line green velvet dress with scooped neckline and headpiece of a green velvet rose and matching veiling. She carried a single large red poinsettia. Mr. Laurie Cottrell was best man.

The bride who entered the room on the arm of her father to the strains of The Bridal Chorus of Lohengrin, left to sign the register to John Stanley's Trumpets White and Silver.

The round table, covered with an heirloom Cluny lace cloth, was centred with the cake and circled with chrysanthemums and lighted tapers.

Toasts were drunk in mulled red wine from silver goblets by the bride and groom, Mr. H. G. Ferguson proposed the brideal toast.

Leaving on the groom's yacht Loveda on honeymoon the bride wore a yellow wool dress, gold tweed coat, matching hat with brown accessories and corsage of yellow carnations. On return they will make their home on Belmont Avenue.

"What Is the Good of a Good Thing If No One Knows About It?"

Dollar Facing Devaluation?

A financial crisis which could force devaluation of the Canadian dollar will grip the country within 18 months, Trade Minister Loffmark predicted Thursday.

This will be preceded by a further devaluation of the British pound before the end of the current year, he said.

Mr. Loffmark made his predictions to reporters as he entered a cabinet meeting Thursday morning. He volunteered to the group:

POUND DOWN AGAIN

"If you're interested in predictions for the New Year, you might like to hear some I have.

"First there will be another devaluation of the British pound this year." At home, he added, "with the problem of refinancing some of the federal debt, coupled with financing of current and prospective deficits, I predict there will be a financial crisis in Canada in a year or two."

ALTERNATIVE

Later he narrowed this down to a crisis "within 18 months."

Mr. Loffmark said analysis by his department of market conditions in Britain and around the world indicated further sterling devaluation in 1968.

Britain has an alternative of introducing "some kind of system of restriction of imports by licence or quota" but will likely choose devaluation, he said.

Canadian devaluation will become "almost inevitable" if the looming financial crisis in this country is linked with implementation of threatened non-tariff penalties against Canadian imports into the U.S., said Mr. Loffmark.

Asked what his predictions meant for B.C., he replied that if they came true they would compound the negative features of his department's recent outline of marketing problems confronting B.C. as a result of British pound devaluation.

Little Cold Relief Indicated

All Canada Buttoned Up

From CP

Thursday was the coldest January ever recorded in the Maritimes, and things were not much better elsewhere in Canada.

The weathermen in the Atlantic provinces predicted no let up today, with the possibility of Thursday's lows of one below in Fredericton and two above in Halifax being equalled again.

Temperatures sank as low as 45 and 50 degrees below in other parts of the country.

Montreal has had only 28.5 inches of snow this winter, well below the normal of 43 inches to this date. However temperatures Thursday dipped to 10.7 degrees below.

At Sorel, Que., 355 factory workers have been marooned for three days, unable to cross the St. Lawrence on the ferry to their homes in Berthierville, Que. An icebreaker was expected to arrive soon to carve a channel through the ice.

In Ontario, the deep-freeze has lasted a week with temperatures reaching 34 and 35 below Thursday at Timmins and Chapleau, respectively. However, warmer weather began moving into northwestern Ontario with Fort William recording 20 degrees.

The warmer air was to move across the province today and early Saturday with more sub-zero air following.

Heavier accumulation of snow in the province is at Warton, south of Georgian Bay, with 25 inches.

The fringe of a blizzard brought warm air to southern Manitoba Wednesday and Thursday with temperatures going above zero for the first time since Dec. 29. Winnipeg went from an early morning 20 above to an overnight low of 20 below.

Winds up to 45 miles an hour and blowing snow forced motorists off the roads and caused trains to run two to five hours late.

Saskatchewan remained in sub-zero temperatures Thursday under clear skies with overnight temperatures reaching 45 below. Predicted highs for today range from 15 degrees below zero to about 25 below.

A pocket of warm air eased its way north along the mountains of southern Alberta Thursday and was to move across the province today and into Saskatchewan Saturday or Sunday. A weather office spokesman in Calgary reported warm air

2,000 feet above the city while ground temperatures remained at between eight and 10 below. He said the air would move gradually down during the day.

In Edmonton, the temperature dropped to about 25 below zero overnight and was to rise today to about 10 below.

Southern British Columbia Thursday was a "seasonable" 36 degrees with rain. However in the northern province, 15 below was expected overnight at Cariboo and a high today of zero.

ID Cards Urged By Hotelman

Victoria hotelmen want the provincial cabinet to make identification cards mandatory for young people seeking service in B.C. bars.

Les Ingraham, president of the local division of the B.C. Hotelmen's Association, has asked Vancouver hotel-keepers for support.

The plan to be recommended to the cabinet is similar to that in force in Washington. In that state the person who wants a card takes a photograph and his birth certificate to a state liquor store, where the card is issued.

Mr. Ingraham noted that, where minor are served by mistake, the waiter is liable for a $300 fine and the hotel concerned can lose its licence.

The hotelman is also urging all members of the association to prosecute under-age customers rather than refuse service.

Derby Faker Jailed

WEST VANCOUVER — David John Chafe, 33, was jailed six months for claiming first prize in the 1967 Sun salmon derby with a 37-pound salmon he bought from a fish dock.

Magistrate Alfred Watts told Chafe, who pleaded guilty, the sentence would have been heavier had Chafe not been the father of four children. Chafe had a record of two bad-cheque convictions. The Sun said derby prizes will be redistributed, with winners moving up one spot on the list.

OTTAWA — The 153rd anniversary of the birth of Sir John A. Macdonald passed virtually unnoticed. John Diefenbaker, a lifelong admirer of Canada's first prime minister, visited Vincent Massey public school to join students in watching a film depicting Sir John A.'s career.

TORONTO — Mayor Denison and Ontario Premier Robarts marked the 153rd birthday anniversary of Sir John A. Macdonald by placing a wreath at his statue on the lawn in front of the Ontario legislative buildings.

UNITED NATIONS — Secretary-General Thant ordered an investigation of Cuba's charge that New York police engaged in "violent aggression" on Cuban mission property to prevent the departure of visiting negro militants Rap Brown and Robert Smith.

LONDON — Actor Basil Sydney, 73, a British movie star and popular actor on Broadway, died from pleurisy after a fall.

ST. LOUIS — Actor Dana Andrews, 56, was discharged from hospital in satisfactory condition after a week of treatment for a skull fracture received in a fall of unstated nature.

TORONTO — Mining promoter Viola MacMillan, 64, began serving a nine-month indeterminate jail term. The Ontario Appeal Court turned down the appeal of her conviction on a charge of wash trading in the stock of one of her companies and also upheld her $10,000 fine.

LOS ANGELES — A regents committee studying University of California student fees has recommended an increase of $156 per academic year. The move is considered a victory for Governor Reagan, who wanted a $200 fee instead of none at all.

Names In the News

Sir John A.

MOSCOW — Soviet Health Minister Boris Petrovsky criticized the heart transplant operations of Dr. Christian Barnard as premature and said Russian surgeons will not be allowed to do similar operations until more research is completed.

VANCOUVER — Canada Council director Jean Boucher today will open a $250,000 music building at UBC.

NEW YORK — Controversial former U.S. District Judge J. W. Waring died in hospital at 87. The South Carolinian's key dissent in a 1951 civil rights case was a mainspring behind the historic 1954 U.S. Supreme Court ruling on school desegregation.

NEW DAYTON, Ala. — A two-car highway crash killed the four-member family of Calgary golf professional Howard French and U.S. army Sgt. Luther Lee of De Queen, Ark., his wife and one of their three children.

VANCOUVER — An inquest jury ruled Eric Day, 46, died unnaturally and accidentally in hospital a month after receiving fatal injuries in a brief beer-parlor fistfight over unionism. Day was a former pro football player and now recording secretary of the pulp-sulphite union's Ocean Falls local.

Gala Manila Soiree

Champagne Fountain Will Dazzle World

MANILA (UPI)—With champagne spraying from a lighted fountain and music by Meyer Davis, Filipino tycoon Eugenio Lopez will celebrate 40 years of marriage Saturday by throwing The Philippines' party of the century.

Lopez, head of the mammoth Manila Electric Co., expects 1,500 guests from around the world to gather at an outdoor fountain designed to shoot champagne 25 feet into the air.

Music will be provided by the imported U.S. society orchestra of Davis. Metropolitan Opera soprano Lucine Amara and the Four Freshmen also will perform at the dusk-to-dawn soiree.

U.S. showman Jack Brooks, producer of the off-Broadway puppet hit Winnie the Pooh, said he had put together a show "with a big surprise finale."

Working for Future

PORT ALBERT — The taxi crawled up the slippery road to the Indian reserve area, where the Alberni Residential School is located.

Once this was a school, but with the coming of integration into the school system, the complex is now simply residences.

The girls were at study or taking gym class when I arrived and I went on a tour of the buildings.

The residences house 300 youngsters from six to 19. Superintendent John Andrews guided me through the residences, among those recently built up by Mrs. Diane Robinson, in her independent of the "open season on Indian girls."

The younger girls were already in bed, but glad of the chance to chatter a little longer.

Great Men All Remind Us

PORT ALBERT — "Look at those who are leaders among the Indian people today, and you'll find the great majority are the product of residential schools."

The statement was made by Gordon Robinson, head of the West Coast Indian Agency in Port Alberni and first Indian in B.C. to hold such a position.

"Both my wife and I spent four years in a residential school, and I consider it one of the best times in my life," Mr. Robinson said.

Vince Wolfe, formerly Mr. Robinson's asstant and now acting head of the agency in Victoria, is another.

Older girls in another big dormitory were having a game of Chinese checkers with Deaconess Jessie Oliver, prior to a Wednesday night "talk session" with her.

Along the way we saw the building housing the older boys. Those over 16 may smoke if they wish, and in the darkened lounge where 20 or 30 were watching TV, one boy took a typical teenage ribbing by producing a cigar.

But most of the boys were not smoking at all.

We met one senior who is on the local high school track team, and who jogs his five-mile stint almost daily, with hopes of achieving a place as a long-distance runner.

Kitchens and dining rooms were fairly conventional, but I was intrigued by the sandwich room, where 200 school lunches are prepared daily.

Finally we toured the building where the older girls are housed.

Seniors are in what used to be staff quarters. Their double rooms were large, with twin beds, dressers, and desks.

Maybe the girls were calmer because they snacked on apples and oranges.

They perched on chairs, couches and the floor in their lounge, turned their young faces up.

We talked about what is good about residential schools.

Washed and in pyjamas, dark hair shining, the 14 youngsters were in big dormitory-lounges.

Sasquatch Glimpse Included in Movie

VANCOUVER (CP)—A weekly newspaper editor and a lead salvager said Thursday they have bought the Canadian rights of a controversial 30-second film clip said to show a sasquatch, for $1,500.

The film was taken last fall in California by a Washington man, Roger Patterson.

John Green, editor of the Agassiz-Harrison Advance, and Rene Dahinden, a lead collector in Richmond, believe the film will help them prove the sasquatches really live on the West Coast.

The two men hope to add the film to a one-hour movie they are compiling. The movie will include interviews with people who say they have seen sasquatches, and with anthropologists.

Steak, Hot Drink Come First

Rescued Pair Hungry, Cold

FORT NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Pilot Don Roadhouse headed for a big steak and passenger Keith Evans had a hot drink after being rescued Thursday from their downed helicopter.

The machine with the Calgary men aboard was reported missing Wednesday and was located about 23 miles northeast of Fort Nelson in northeastern British Columbia in a heavily wooded area.

Temperatures in the area dropped to 36 degrees below zero early Thursday.

The helicopter, owned by Alpine Helicopters Ltd. of Calgary, was leased to Pan American Petroleum Corp. and was taking Evans to another well site when its engine stopped.

Art Handold, an expediter for the oil company in Fort Nelson, said Roadhouse was able to set the helicopter down on a creek bed without damage.

"Their feet are a bit nippy and they're hungry, but otherwise they're fine," he said.

A Pan American spokesman in Calgary said the man had complained of the cold, but said they put up some tarpaulins and lit a big fire.

The downed helicopter was located by an RCAF plane from Comox, following a signal from a Search and Rescue Aircraft Homing device (SARAH). A fire was sighted nearby and a flashing light on the helicopter was operating.

Heart Fluid Setback For Blaiberg

CAPE TOWN (AP)—Doctors at Groote Schuur Hospital Thursday removed fluid that developed around the transplanted heart of Dr. Philip Blaiberg and said they "do not take a serious view of this complication."

But it was a setback for the 58-year-old retired South African dentist, who became the world's third human heart transplant patient Jan. 2. A hospital bulletin said "the patient's condition is not as good today as yesterday."

The hospital said formation of fluid in the pericardial sac was not a sign Blaiberg's body was rejecting the heart.

NOT UNCOMMON

A member of Dr. Christiaan N. Barnard's transplant team said development of fluid around the heart was not uncommon in open heart surgery cases.

The hospital said a needle was inserted into the pericardium and the fluid removed.

"After this procedure, he feels better," the bulletin said.

NOT SERIOUS

Blaiberg developed a slight throat infection, but it also was not considered serious.

Botha said Blaiberg was in better shape nine days after the operation than the first heart transplant patient, Louis Washkansky.

He said drugs given Blaiberg to combat the body's natural tendency to reject foreign organs are being reduced because they also suppress the body's ability to fight infection.

In Stanford, Calif., the condition of Mike Kasperak, who had a heart transplant Saturday night, continues to improve, doctors reported.

Use of an artificial kidney has been discontinued, a medical bulletin from Stanford Medical Centre said, and his kidney function had turned to near normal.

"His blood pressure, pulse and cardiac functions are normal. He is still being fed intravenously. The patient is breathing spontaneously without the assistance of a respirator for part of the time. His liver function continues to improve," the bulletin said.

STAYING ON LIST

Doctors noted Kasperak remained on the critical list. However, this was not unexpected.

Dr. Norman E. Shumway, chief of the team of surgeons who made the transplant, said Kasperak's condition would be considered critical for several weeks because of the possibility his body may reject the implanted tissue.

Kasperak, 54, a retired steelworker, has sat up in bed several times, his legs dangling over the side to facilitate circulation.

Mr. Speaker Raps Premier

Ferry Halt 'Boorish'

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — William Murray, Social Credit MLA for Prince Rupert, says Premier Bennett displayed a boorish attitude in tying up the ferry Queen of Prince Rupert for the winter.

Mr. Murray, also Speaker of the legislature, said he regretted a dispute between the premier and Alaska Governor Walter Hickel over the Prince Rupert-Kelsey Bay British Columbia service.

"It did very little for a public relations standpoint between B.C. and Alaska," he told a service club here.

Alaska subsequently initiated its own ferry service

south when Mr. Bennett announced the B.C. service would not resume until March 28.

The Alaska service runs to Seattle.

The B.C. ferry was damaged when it ran aground in fog near Alert Bay last August.

"Despite the boorish attitude taken by the premier in refusing to put the Queen back into service... the main concern now is to concentrate on future transportation needs of the area," Mr. Murray said.

He called for lower winter fares on ferries, joint ferry travel promotion with Alaska, and a speedup in building highway links in northern areas of the province to develop year-round coastal ferry traffic.

MP Charges 'Politics'

WEST YARDS LOSE AGAIN

By DON GAIN

Ottawa is still awarding contracts to East Coast shipyards but there aren't any government orders for West Coast yards, George Chatterton said Thursday.

The Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich said he had just received word that a contract for the refits of HMCS Skeena and Restigouche was awarded St. John Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. Ltd. in St. John, N.B., at a cost of $886,500.

When tenders were called for conversion of the destroyer-escort HMCS Chaudiere and Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd. of North Vancouver was low bidder at $4,500,000, the work was deferred, he said.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE
"When it comes to jobs for the East Coast, there is no deferment," he said. "It's just another example of how West Coast shipyards are treated compared to the east."

The Esquimalt-Saanich member accused the federal government of deliberately causing unemployment here to counter inflation, "which the government was largely instrumental in creating."

He said political considerations was a major factor.

"The present government has its political base in the east, and this is what happens. They've got to maintain that base."

TIME TO SPEAK
Neil Hindle, business agent of the boilermakers' union, local 191, said it was time Mr. Chatterton spoke up.

"Both he and (Victoria Liberal MP David) Groos have been as quiet as mice about this situation," he said.

"I think they've been apathetic," Mr. Hindle continued. "I've had 366 people unemployed for the past three months. It's the government's policy to put people on welfare to help the economy."

GOING BEHIND
"Under Diefenbaker, shipbuilding took a surge ahead, but under the Liberals it's going behind. Certainly there are political considerations in their giving orders in Eastern Canada."

Mr. Chatterton noted proposed shipbuilding which was deferred by the Liberal government — the $6,000,000 replacement for the lighthouse-tender Estevan; five Coast Guard cutters, two of which were to have been built on the West Coast; three conversion jobs on destroyer escorts.

ALL DEFERRED
"They've all been deferred," he said, "and the Coast Guard cutters weren't deferred until one contract had been let to Davie Shipbuilding in Leuzon, Que."

He said the Chaudiere contract would have provided jobs for about 250 men for 14 months.

SOONER OR LATER
"But they deferred it. It's got to be done sooner or later, and right now, with unemployment at 6.3 per cent, one of the highest in Canada, you'd think this would be a major consideration for any government."

"There were more than 2,500 people working in the shipyards when the contract was awarded."

CIA Link Claimed At Trial

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet prosecutor Gennadi Terekhov Thursday demanded a total of 15 years in prison for four young dissidents accused of cooperating with an outlawed anti-Soviet organization which allegedly received funds from the CIA.

The four Russians are accused of "deliberately" cooperating with the National Alliance of Russian Solidarists, an anti-Communist group outlawed in the Soviet Union. The Kremlin claims the group is dedicated to overthrowing the Soviet government and that it is CIA-subsidized.

Eight Emulate Champ's Death

TEHRAN (AP) — Eight Iranian wrestlers were reported to have killed themselves this week in a wave of suicides following the death of world champion Gholam-Rexa Takhti, 37, who committed suicide Monday.

The coroner's office confirmed the eight deaths but released only one name — Parviz Moafi, who took an overdose of sleeping pills Tuesday.

Three young wrestlers died Wednesday, leaving notes saying they "could not stand the death of their idol." The Iranian press did not print details, but the new suicides apparently were not world champions.

Wrestlers from the U.S., Soviet Union, Japan, Turkey, Bulgaria and other nations are taking part in a competition here.

Oil from Hulk Killing Gulls

CAMPBELL RIVER—Divers are worried that bunkers of the sunken Dutch freighter Schiedyk may explode, swamping the channel near Gold River with oil. Already seagulls are reported dying after their wings have been dipped in the oil slick.

Divers Thursday estimated the bunker oil is escaping into the water at the rate of about two gallons a minute.

U.S. attaché Metzger, Canadian Jefferson

Poles Apprehend Canadian Officer

WARSAW (CP-AP) — The Polish government charged Thursday that army attaches from the Canadian and United States embassies were caught

"carrying out intelligence activities." The American was ordered to leave the country.

The two are Lt.-Col. Kenneth I. Jefferson, 43, a native of Regina named to the Warsaw post last August, and Lt.-Col. Edward H. Metzger, 42, of Quincy, Mass., ordered to leave Poland before Jan. 16.

The Polish accusation, carried by the official press agency PAP, said the "unauthorized activities" of Jefferson were brought to the attention of the Canadian embassy and "further consequences are under consideration." As of now, he has not been ordered out of Poland.

U.S. PROTESTS
A U.S. embassy statement said the U.S. government, here and in Washington, protested what it described as a "flagrant violation of the immunity of an American diplomatic officer."

A Canadian embassy spokesman said Jefferson went on leave last Sunday, travelling with his wife and daughter to England to take the daughter to a British school. The spokesman

Hearings Bid Fails

Labor Clashes With Peterson

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

Leaders of the B.C. Federation of Labor clashed with Labor Minister Peterson Thursday over whether legislative committee hearings should be held on proposed law changes affecting trade unions.

E. T. Staley, president of the 136,000-member body, said federation representatives asked the cabinet for an opportunity to present specific changes to three major pieces of legislation — Trade Unions Act (Bill 43), Labor Relations Act and Workmen's Compensation Act.

This should be done before the legislative committee on labor matters, Mr. Staley urged, so that both labor and management could present their views and debate the points raised.

"Mr. Peterson took strong exception to what he assumed was an attempt to bypass his department — we got into quite an argument over this point," Mr. Staley said later.

LAST SESSION
Federation secretary-treasurer Ray Haynes said the minister "gave every indication" the government intended to proceed with the new Workmen's Compensation Act introduced last session but deferred for a 12-month study.

"He impressed upon us the need to present our proposals to the department at once," said Mr. Haynes. "This leaves us in a very poor position. For instance, the employers have made a presentation already. We didn't"

'Radical' Hellyer Running

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Paul Hellyer, the stormy architect of armed forces unification, is seeking the leadership of the Liberal party. (See also Page 12).

Hellyer, 44, threw his hat into the ring at a news conference here Thursday, before heading towards Toronto and the formal, noisy kickoff of the campaign.

GENUINE ARTICLE
He called himself a genuine reformer, more radical than most people believed, and expressed confidence about the outcome.

He also admitted that unification of the armed forces has left its scars.

As he entered the race, one of the three top contenders, he dangled a few plump carrots before the provinces, which will do him no harm politically.

RADICAL VIEW
For example, he urged the government to look at the provincial point of view on medicare.

This is considered political heresy here. The government, through Prime Minister Pearson and at least two of Hellyer's rivals, Finance Minister Mitchell, has been attacking the provinces.

Hoffman

Insanity Rider Attached To Not Guilty Verdict

BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP) — A Saskatchewan farm laborer was found not guilty by reason of insanity Thursday on two charges of non-capital murder arising from the rifle slaying of nine members of a farm family at Shell Lake, Sask., last Aug. 15.

Victor Ernest Hoffman, 21, of Leask, Sask., was committed to the correctional institution at Prince Albert, Sask., 60 miles east of Shell Lake, to await a cabinet decision. The order by Mr. Justice M. A. MacPherson of Court of Queen's Bench means he can be released only at the discretion of the provincial government.

SIX DAYS LATER
Hoffman was charged Aug. 21, six days after James Peterson, 47, his wife Evelyn, 42, and seven of their children were shot in their farm home. He was charged only in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson.

Hoffman, who had been released from a mental institution about three weeks before the slayings, showed no emotion when the all-male jury announced its verdict after deliberating 3 1/2 hours and Mr. Justice MacPherson ordered his committal.

Mr. Justice MacPherson told the Queen's Bench Court jury there "is no real conflict of evidence" and the jury "is not concerned with the credibility of witnesses."

"There is no evidence before you of any eyewitnesses. What you have here is a circumstantial case."

He said the defence of insanity must be applied only to the defendant's state of mind when the acts were committed and that the Criminal Code says no person can be convicted of an offence committed when he was insane. There was a "critically brief time element" between the death of Mr.

Peterson, the first to be shot, and Mrs. Peterson, the last. He said "somewhere between eight to 10 minutes" would have elapsed.

Defence counsel Ted Noble said the jury would "search the Crown's evidence in vain to find out why the horrifying event of that day took place."

There could be no rational answer except that "the accused was insane, completely insane."

U.S. PROTESTS
A U.S. embassy statement said the U.S. government, here and in Washington, protested what it described as a "flagrant violation of the immunity of an American diplomatic officer."

A Canadian embassy spokesman said Jefferson went on leave last Sunday, travelling with his wife and daughter to England to take the daughter to a British school. The spokesman

'Sometimes We Chat' at Gallows

By SCOTT BUTTON

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government's decision to abolish the death penalty except for the murder of a policeman or prison guard doesn't sit well with the official executioner.

"It's all foolishness," the hangman said Thursday.

The hangman, whose identity is a closely-guarded secret, said in an interview with The Canadian Press from an undisclosed location that he is a firm believer in capital punishment.

He said his occupation does not lead to insomnia because "I believe in it."

Seventeen years ago, he became Canada's only hangman after he was selected by a "late sheriff." He declined to identify the sheriff.

The hangman, who says he is reluctant to give interviews, lives on the border of Ontario and another province.

He is married and has children, but would not say how many.

His family is not aware that he "moonlights" as a hangman because his regular occupation requires travelling and serves as a cover-up. He would not give his other occupation.

He said he was born in Canada even though he spoke with a slight Scottish accent.

He said he could not estimate the number of persons he has hanged. He is paid by retainer, not by assignment.

He was asked how much. "Did I ask you how much you are paid?" he snapped.

He learned his trade from a "previous hangman," and has had thorough training in human anatomy.

His victims die quickly and painlessly, he said. Sometimes the executioner and the condemned chat a little before getting down to business.

"I talk with them about whatever they want to talk about. They must start the conversation."

He will stay on the job "as long as it's required."

Because he is afraid of reprisals he carries a firearm. Childhood friends of a person about to be hanged once attacked him, he said.

A religious man, he said he attends church "quite regularly."

In an earlier interview he also vigorously defended capital punishment.

"There are so many people that are unemployed that just don't want to work. I contend that if a man is a born bum, if capital punishment is abolished, all he has to do is shoot someone in the street. He is sentenced to life with three meals per day in a warm room, and has a bed, and that is more than what a bum wants."

'White Settlers Afraid Of Black Ruin'

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—"The natives in South West Africa are very well looked after and there is no hatred towards the white people as far as I can see," a young German said Thursday.

Dietmar Hendrick, 25, recently arrived in Duncan from Southwest Africa to stay with his cousin, Mrs. Charles Rowley, Rosevear Road. He is a hotel manager, looking for a hotel to manage in Victoria or Vancouver.

"Efforts are being made now to make the South African-mandated country of Southwest Africa independent. But the white settlers would not leave under any circumstances."

"They fear the black man could not handle the affairs of running the country, and that the many businesses and farms built up by several generations would go to ruin."

"South Africa would not agree to it either," he said. Dietmar, who loves adventure and travel, spent 3½ years in Southwest Africa after an extensive holiday in Europe.

The tall, lean young man found adventure even while working at the Grand Hotel Windhoek at Windhoek.

He spent many leisure hours on horseback, hunting and taking part in photo safaris.

He said the city of Windhoek has many relics from the time when Germany had colonies in Africa.

According to his story, Windhoek and parts of Southwest Africa is more German than Germany itself.

The old established German settlers, the British and the Africans mix well and they all seem to have made up their minds that segregation between white and black people is a reasonable solution, Dietmar said.

He added that many of the black people who belong to a large number of tribes still speak German. Most of them speak English as well.

He has found the district's snow and freezing temperatures far different to the century-heat of the wide veldts.

Dietmar consequently has pulled his antelope hide jacket out of his trunk and put it to good use. He also wears a broad bush hat with a leopard skin band.

Among his souvenirs of the dark continent is an eight-foot long snakeskin.

Dietmar, who comes from West Germany, experienced much genuine hospitality from the white settlers. While on may excursions he and friends had glimpses into the rich and captivating beauty of Africa.

An Arrow truck driver escaped injury when his chip truck overturned off Lake Cowichan Road, in heavy snow drifts. Contents were spilled. Driver Dave Ridschart of Duncan suffered injured finger, as he fought to control heavy truck and trailer unit. Picture above was taken by Jean MacGregor. Three to four inches of fresh snow fell at Lake Cowichan, and highways were a hazard. Snow plows worked hard to clear roads. Snow made some pretty scenes, like the farm at right, shot through snow-covered branches by Miss Muenster. Public works crews all over Vancouver Island had to fight falling flakes to keep traffic moving on its appointed rounds, making sure merchandise, newspapers, emergency vehicles and travellers were able to get to their destinations safely.

Truck Takes Spill in Snow As Other Cars Carry On

Board Asks for Cash To Complete Project

LAKE COWICHAN — The community hall board has asked the village to give major financial help to get the hall completed.

The community hall is Lake Cowichan's $75,000 centennial project.

Henry Lundgren, chairman of the hall board, told village council the group is $6,100 in debt for work completed on the community hall at the end of 1967.

He also asked for a grant of $5,000 to complete the project. Mr. Lundgren stated "The centennial hall can be finished within six months."

"The remaining items to be done are the finishing of the cloakroom, showers, a staircase and landscaping."

He asked the council to consider a final grant to the community hall of about $11,000.

Pay Debt

He explained if all this amount was not used, the remaining money would revert to the council.

Mr. Lundgren said, "If council decides to include this in its 1968 budget, I would like a letter of intent for the hall board so we can obtain a loan immediately to pay off the debt and get started on the last phase of the project."

He continued, "Probably tens of thousands of dollars can be spent on the hall in the future, including the purchasing of sports equipment and equipment for stage effects, but these items are not part of the main program."

Not Responsible

He said the celebrations committee is expected to continue in the future to raise money each year for such extra items.

"It is not the responsibility of the council or the building committee to equip the hall," he said.

The council's new chairman, Moe All, noted the council has not held its budget meeting for this year, and that the finance committee would not be meeting for another few weeks.

Councillors agreed to a motion from Coun. Archie Greenwell to budget for the $6,100 debt incurred up to the end of 1967, and that the council consider the other $5,000 grant to complete the hall at the budget meeting.

Rat Control

Mr. Lundgren added he would ask the building committee to submit a detailed breakdown of expenditures for the community hall.

Council learned the works department has a rat-control scheme in progress.

Chairman All told councillors he had received several complaints about the village's rat-control program.

He said he had been told the rats have been coming from the dump to houses in the area near the dump.

He said, "It has been suggested we should start a rat-killing campaign which will include giving out free rat poison to residents."

Rats in Town

Coun. Greenwell stated, "We do the best we can to eliminate the rats at the dump."

"The rats in town do not all originate from the dump. I think our responsibility ends at the dump, where we are keeping the rat population down to a minimum."

Superintendent of works, Vic Palmer told council he had just purchased a large amount of rat poison which he intended to use immediately.

"This poison worked well last year," he said. "We will set the poison out for a second time about three weeks after the first rat-killing campaign."

Unaware

This method gets most of them."

Chairman All said he had been unaware the rat-killing campaign had already been started.

Coun. Greenwell added, "I think the dump keeps many rats there, that would otherwise be in the village."

Coun. Herb Halliday reported the volunteer fire department has a new extension ladder, and the firemen are asking for council direction on what to do with the old 35-foot extension.

Coun. Halliday said the firemen suggested the old ladder be donated to the centennial community hall where it could be used to change ceiling lights in the auditorium, among other things.

He said "I think the suggestion is an excellent idea, since the hall is in need of an extension ladder anyway."

"The donation will be made to the hall board."

Stephen Martin, 8, of Cobble Hill, is one of the happiest boys in the Cowichan Valley now that his poodle-cocker Toton has been found. The dog wandered away from the family home three weeks ago, and every effort by his mother, Mrs. Frank Martin, to find the dog was believed to have failed. The dog was found in Shawnigan Lake and was returned by Allister Bolton, Mill Bay. "I had contacted about everyone in Duncan, making 50 phone calls on the first day Toton disappeared," said Mrs. Martin. She explained that Stephen had been very upset over the loss of his puppy, which is turning silver, and had not had a happy Christmas... Ted Jenkinson was recently sworn in as a Nanaimo alderman.

Ladysmith Host For Festival

NANAIMO — Ladysmith and Little Theatre has accepted the duties of being host club to the forthcoming Island Drama Festival.

Although Duncan and Victoria drama clubs have been entering plays into festivals in this area over the past few years, they have been doing so as guests of the now defunct North Vancouver Island Drama zone.

Last year the whole Island was united into one zone. Jack Atkinson, one of Ladysmith's hardest-working drama club members, has assumed the position of festival chairman. "We've already started on it," he said.

Committee heads include: Joan Tooker, stage manager; Joan Peddie, publicity; Joan Hulme, hostess for visiting groups; Evelyn Smith, tickets and auditorium manager, and Alice Atkinson, refreshments. "We've got a hard act to follow, with the job Nanaimo did last year," continued Mr. Atkinson.

What he was not aware of is the fact that his reputation for producing the goods is well known, to the point that zone chairman Keith Smoforth commented earlier, "You know Jack — if he says he'll try, it means an excellent job is already half done."

The Ladysmith club, although not the largest, has for years been recognized by festival adjudicators as being one of the best.

This year the club will tackle Resounding Tinkle, an advance guard play, which was done in the one-act finals by Victoria several years ago.

Duncan Seeks Advice

DUNCAN — City council Thursday night decided to engage the services of town planners Rawson and Wiles Ltd. of Vancouver to carry out a $1,500 zoning study.

Franklin Wiles told council that "Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation officials have stressed on several occasions the need for evidence that a municipality will control development in accordance with general plans and renewal schemes."

"In the case of Duncan, they are concerned about commercial development near the highway, as well as the scheme area, because excessive competition could jeopardize the viability of the central business district."

Little Bit of Old Germany Found in Africa, Location on Page 14

NANAIMO — Civic properties and recreation commission denied a request Thursday night by Royal Canadian Legion branch 256 to connect its aged housing scheme to Comox Park's sewer line.

The housing project, on Pridoux Avenue, could be connected to existing lines on that road, but the building would have to be raised four feet.

Stairs would also have to be installed, which would be difficult for older people, the commission was told in a Legion letter.

However, wanting to consider the aged, the commission agreed to a special line through Comox Park.

Members stressed that the line must be placed deep enough so park facilities will not be affected, and on completion, the grounds must be left in usable condition.

In denying the original request, the commission felt the park's expansion would not have been possible with both on the four-inch sewer line.

There are plans for several units in the aged housing scheme.

In other business, Harry Wipper, commission superintendent, suggested roads should be blacktopped in Bowen Park as pilot projects for Mayor Frank Ney's road program.

Mr. Ney, both in campaign speeches and inaugural address, said blacktopping of city roads is of better standard than provincial highways.

This is both expensive and unnecessary, he said.

Transit System Faces Crisis, Must Have Public Support

NANAIMO — The Nanaimo transit must have a subsidy or curtail service, despite Nanaimo waiving payments due on bus purchases.

A meeting of Nanaimo, Harewood, Northfield, Wellington and Departure Bay resulted in agreement on this issue, even if past ones had been deadlocked.

In December, it had been agreed that $6,000 would be shared by the areas, but an emergency need of $1,230 for licences was the immediate concern.

All but Departure Bay agreed to use money on hand to make continuation of service possible, thus meeting the Feb. 29 deadline.

Departure Bay representative Bob Kelly declined to go ahead with what he termed "an illegal action," insisting the issue must be placed before ratepayers sometime in February.

Northfield's Tony Poje and Harewood's Alex Virotsko, anxious to keep red tape to a minimum, insisted no one would put 20 trustees in jail for this issue.

Act first, and have Letters Patent changed afterward, was their stand.

The four improvement districts will need changes in Letters Patent, while Nanaimo will need amendments to the Municipal Act, in order that money can be given to the transit service.

Flames Wipe Out Worker's Home

CAMPBELL RIVER—A house burned to the ground soon after 4 a.m. Thursday on Gordon Road.

The house was owned by Allan Ross Walker, a mill worker, but was unoccupied at the time of the fire.

Gordon Road is in an outlying area of Campbell River, and is not in any fire district. Fire trucks from the Campbell River fire protection area attended however, but were unable to save it. No reason is yet known for the cause of the blaze.

Working for Tomorrow

By MARY TAYLOR

PORT ALBERNI — The taxi crawled up the slippery road to the Indian reserve area, where the Alberni Residential School is located.

Once this was a school, but with the coming of integration into the school system, the complex is now simply residences.

The girls were at study, or taking gym class when I arrived, so I went on a tour of the buildings.

The residences house 300 youngsters from six to 19.

Superintendent John Andrews guided me through the residences, among those recently held up by Mrs. Diana Recalma, in her indictment of the "open season on Indian girls."

The younger girls were already in bed, but glad of the chance to chatter a little longer.

Washed and in pyjamas, dark hair shining, the 14 youngsters were in big dormitory-lounges.

Older girls in another big dormitory were having a game of Chinese checkers with Deaconess Jessie Oliver, prior to a Wednesday night "talk session" with her.

Along the way, we saw the building housing the older boys. Those over 16 may smoke if they wish, and in the darkened lounge where 20 or 30 were watching TV, one boy took a typical teenage ribbing by producing a cigar.

But most of the boys were not smoking at all.

We met one senior who is on the local high school track team, and who jogs his five-mile stint almost daily, with hopes of achieving a place as a long-distance runner.

Kitchens and dining rooms, were fairly conventional, but I was intrigued by the sandwich room, where 300 school lunches are prepared daily.

Finally we toured the building where the older girls are housed.

Seniors are in what used to be staff quarters. Their double rooms were large, with twin beds, dressers, and desks.

Maybe the girls were calorie-conscious, they snacked on apples and oranges.

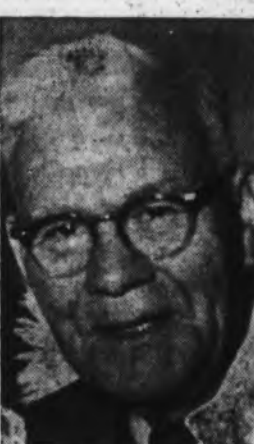

They perched on chairs, couches and the floor in their lounge, turned their young faces up.

We talked about what is good about residential schools. "They permit us to keep on with our education," said one. "It's great to be with so many kids your own age and make friends," said another.

Everyone liked to go home for the holidays, but they liked to come back to school too, they said. There's more to do and more people their own age to do it with.

What do they do? They hold dances, sometimes with a small charge, and then for the Christmas dance, they can afford to hire a combo.

At weekends they go into town to shop and visit friends.

Kelly

Great Men All Remind Us

PORT ALBERNI—"Look at those who are leaders among the Indian people today, and you'll find the great majority are the product of residential school."

The statement was made by Gordon Robinson, head of the West Coast Indian Agency in Port Alberni and first Indian in B.C. to hold such a position.

"Both my wife and I spent four years in a residential school, and I consider it one of the best times in my life," Mr. Robinson said.

Vince Wells, formerly Mr. Robinson's asstant and now acting head of the agency in Lytton, is another.

MLA Frank Calder, the famous Dr. Peter Kelly, George Clutesi, writer and artist, Friendship Centre chairman Art Peters and many more can be cited as men who have been educated in residential schools.

It is wrong to speak in generalities of institutions that have served a very necessary purpose, and that is the best answer to the problem of educating the children, Mr. Robinson said.

"If we didn't have the residential schools, how could we possibly accommodate these children?" he asked.

High Costs Blamed For Oil Price Boost

The cost of keeping warm in Victoria has gone up this week, with major oil companies hiking the price of domestic fuel oil by one cent a gallon.

New prices in the Victoria area are 20.6 to 21 cents a gallon for furnace oil, and 23.5 to 24.5 cents a gallon for stove oil, based on the quantity of consumption. Prices include half a cent a gallon provincial fuel tax.

Increased operating costs were given as the reason for the rise.

One-Way Plan Will Start In September

By A. H. MURPHY

The first of three sets of paired one-way streets designed to ease Victoria's ever-increasing traffic burden will go into action in September, city traffic engineer David Campbell said Wednesday.

When planning is completed, new signs delivered and the tourist season ended, automobile traffic will be channelled west on Yates and east on Fort between Wharf and the Dardanelles.

GOOD FOR BUSINESS

And the merchants are in favor.

Mr. Campbell said he had had long talks with the merchants on both of the main arteries, and they were almost unanimously agreed that it would be good for business.

"This is something we have advocated," said Jack Lecterman, president of the Yates Street 700-Block Merchants Association.

The whole attitude toward one-way streets has changed in the past few years, said Mr. Campbell, and the reason seems to be that favorable reports have been received from other cities. Earlier Victoria experiments with one-way streets were dropped because of complaints.

NEXT STEP

Next step will be the fitting of Pandora and Johnson into the paired one-way plan. This will not take place, however, until another project has been completed at the western end of both streets.

There the city will have an overpass-underpass-circle junction.

TENDERS FOR SEWER PUMPS
Sealed tenders will be received by the City Clerk, City Hall, Victoria, B.C., until noon on Wednesday, January 24, 1968, for two 60" vertical screw pumps. Unit capacity 500 U.S. G.P.M. against 30 ft. head. Operation 400 P.M. to 8 P.M. P.O.B. City Hall, Victoria, B.C.

Specifications obtainable from the undersigned.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

The Family and Children's Service will be bringing most of its principal activities under one roof when it moves to new offices March 1, executive director Gordon Wright said Wednesday.

The United Appeal agency will be leaving Spencerhouse, 1951 Cook, for the quarters at 1627 Fort because it needs more space.

Its new offices will be on an upper floor of a renovated former Safeway store near the Oak Bay Junction. The site is on bus routes and has plenty of parking space for staff, said Mr. Wright.

Also moving into the new building will be the unmarried parents' service, now in the Montreal Trust Building on Fort, and the adoption service, which is on Meares.

The move does not alter the agency's neighborhood centre plans, Mr. Wright explained. The satellite social service office at Fernwood and Gladstone and another planned for the James Bay area will not be disturbed.

Mr. Wright said that while rents were going up at Spencerhouse, built by the Sara Spencer Foundation as headquarters for local welfare and charitable agencies, this is not connected to the Family and Children's Service move.

The rents are being increased because the building needs renovations.

An example of the increase in rent is that which will be paid by Greater Victoria Community Chest. Tenant of most of the top floor, its rent has been increased from $160 to $220 a month.

Lowest Bid $1,684,487 On Campus

Marwell Construction Ltd. of Vancouver submitted the lowest of six bids — $1,684,487 — when tenders were opened Tuesday on the University of Victoria's common building.

The building will ultimately serve eight residence blocks. The existing four residences will become the university's first college when the commons block is completed. The university's board of governors will award a contract soon. Bids ranged to a high of $1,865,000.

Director's Assistant

Former Navy Officer Added to Jubilee Staff

Royal Jubilee Hospital announced the appointment Wednesday of Clifford A. Brown, former executive assistant to the regional surgeon at CFB Esquimalt, to its administrative staff.

Mr. Brown, who recently retired from the navy with the rank of lieutenant-commander after 28 1/2 years service, will be executive assistant to Dr. A. C. Pickles, the hospital's executive director.

Mr. Brown took his initial training in hospital administration at Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal. Before his Esquimalt posting, he held a similar position at CFB Halifax, and was on the staff of the Canadian Forces medical director-general in Ottawa and the medical training centre at Camp Borden, Ont.

He was chief instructor at the Camp Borden centre.

Mr. Brown is also a nominee to the American College of Hospital Administrators.

Iranian Wrestlers

Eight Emulate Champ's Death

TEHRAN (AP) — Eight Iranian wrestlers were reported to have killed themselves this week in a wave of suicides following the death of world champion Gholam-Rexa Takhti, 37, who committed suicide Monday.

The coroner's office confirmed the eight deaths but released only one name—Parviz Moafi, who took an overdose of sleeping pills Tuesday.

Three young wrestlers died Wednesday, leaving notes saying they "could not stand the death of their idol." The Iranian press did not print details, but the new suicides apparently were not world champions.

Wrestlers from the U.S., Soviet Union, Japan, Turkey, Bulgaria and other nations are taking part in a competition here.

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two rapid-transit commuter trains collided at the start of the evening rush hour Thursday, injuring about 200 persons and delaying thousands more.

There were no reports of deaths, but five of the injured were regarded as critically hurt.

Injured jammed the basement emergency room at the Jersey City Medical Centre. Twenty-eight extra doctors were called in to help two regular physicians treat the injured.

Dr. Clifford Blasi, director of emergency facilities, estimated that more than 200 injured were brought in. Most were released after examination and treatment.

The hospital administrator, Theodore Austin, said 50 stretchers were brought in. These were carried in near-zero weather along snow-covered tracks for 300 yards.

The accident halted service for an hour on the line, which hauls 100,000 commuters a day between New York and New Jersey. Commuters who normally ride the electric cars to connect with the other trains and buses at Jersey City and New ark were forced to wait for service to resume or seek alternate means of transportation.

About 100 policemen, firemen and ambulance workers were called to the scene to help free trapped passengers.

Many of the casualties were covered with blood. Many walked to receive treatment.

Oil from Hulk Killing Gulls

CAMPBELL RIVER—Divers are worried that bunkers of the sunken Dutch freighter Schiedyk may explode, swamping the channel near Gold River with oil. Already seagulls are reported dying after their wings have been dipped in the oil slick.

Divers Thursday estimated the bunker oil is escaping into the water at the rate of about two gallons a minute.

U.S. attaché Metzger, Canadian Jefferson

Poles Apprehend Canadian Officer

WARSAW (CP-AP) — The Polish government charged Thursday that army attaches from the Canadian and United States embassies were caught

"carrying out intelligence activities." The American was ordered to leave the country.

The two are Lt.-Col. Kenneth I. Jefferson, 43, a native of Regina named to the Warsaw post last August, and Lt.-Col. Edward H. Metzger, 42, of Quincy, Mass., ordered to leave Poland before Jan. 16.

The Polish accusation, carried by the official press agency PAP, said the "unlawful activities" of Jefferson were brought "firmly" to the attention of the Canadian embassy and "further consequences are under consideration." As of now, he has not been ordered out of Poland.

U.S. PROTESTS

A U.S. embassy statement said the U.S. government, here and in Washington, protested what it described as a "flagrant violation of the immunity of an American diplomatic officer."

A Canadian embassy spokesman said Jefferson went on leave last Sunday, travelling with his wife and daughter to England to take the daughter to a British school. The spokesman

MP Charges 'Politics'

West Yards Lose Again

By DON GAIN

Ottawa is still awarding contracts to East Coast shipyards but there aren't any government orders for West Coast yards, George Chatterton said Thursday.

The Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich said he had just received word that a contract for the refits of HMCS Skeena and Restigouche was awarded St. John Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. Ltd. in St. John, N.B., at a cost of $886,500.

When tenders were called for conversion of the destroyer-escort, HMCS Chaudiere and Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd. of North Vancouver was low bidder at $4,500,000, the work was deferred, he said.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE

"When it comes to jobs for the East Coast, there is no deferment," he said. "It's just another example of how West Coast shipyards are treated compared to the east."

The Esquimalt-Saanich member accused the federal government of deliberately causing unemployment here to counter inflation, "which the government was largely instrumental in creating."

He said political consideration was a major factor.

"The present government has its political base in the east, and this is what happens. They've got to maintain that base."

TIME TO SPEAK

Neil Hindle, business agent of the boilermakers' union, local 191, said it was time Mr. Chatterton spoke up.

"Both he and (Victoria Liberal MP David) Groos have been as quiet as mice about this situation," he said.

"I think they've been apathetic," Mr. Hindle continued. "I've had 366 people unemployed for the past three months. It's the government's policy to put people on welfare to help the economy."

GOING BEHIND

"Under Diefenbaker, shipbuilding took a surge ahead, but under the Liberals it's going behind. Certainly there are political considerations in their giving orders in Eastern Canada."

Mr. Chatterton noted proposed shipbuilding which was deferred by the Liberal government — the $6,000,000 replacement for the lighthouse-tender Estevan; five Coast Guard cutters, two of which were to have been built on the West Coast; three conversion jobs on destroyer escorts.

ALL DEFERRED

"They've all been deferred," he said, "and the Coast Guard cutters weren't deferred until one contract had been let to Davie Shipbuilding in Lauzon, Que."

He said the Chaudiere contract would have provided jobs for about 250 men for 14 months.

SOONER OR LATER

"But they deferred it. It's got to be done sooner or later, and right now, with unemployment at 6.3 per cent, one of the highest in Canada, you'd think this would be a major consideration for any government."

"There were more than 2,500 people working in the shipyards

CIA Link Claimed At Trial

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet prosecutor Gennadi Terekhov Thursday demanded a total of 15 years in prison for four young dissidents accused of co-operating with an outlawed anti-Soviet organization which allegedly received funds from the CIA.

The four Russians are accused of "deliberately" co-operating with the National Alliance of Russian Solidarists, an anti-Communist group outlawed in the Soviet Union. The Kremlin claims the group is dedicated to overthrowing the Soviet government and that it is CIA-subsidized.

Hearings Bid Fails

Labor Clashes With Peterson

By IAN STREET, Legislative Reporter

Leaders of the B.C. Federation of Labor clashed with Labor Minister Peterson Thursday over whether legislative committee hearings should be held on proposed law changes affecting trade unions.

E. T. Staley, president of the 136,000-member body, said federation representatives asked the cabinet for an opportunity to present specific changes to three major pieces of legislation — Trade Unions Act (Bill 43), Labor Relations Act and Workmen's Compensation Act.

This should be done before the legislative committee on labor matters, Mr. Staley urged, so that both labor and management could present their views and debate the points raised.

"Mr. Peterson took strong exception to what he assumed was an attempt to bypass his department — we got into quite an argument over this point," Mr. Staley said later.

LAST SESSION

Federation secretary-treasurer Ray Haynes said the minister "gave every indication" the government intended to proceed with the new Workmen's Compensation Act introduced last session but deferred for a 12-month study.

"He impressed upon us the need to present our proposals to the department at once," said Mr. Haynes. "This leaves us in a very poor position. For instance, the employers have made a presentation already. We didn't

Ferry Halt 'Boorish' Socred Raps Premier

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — William Murray, Social Credit MLA for Prince Rupert, says Premier Bennett displayed a boorish attitude in tying up the ferry Queen of Prince Rupert for the winter.

Mr. Murray, also Speaker of the legislature, said he regretted a dispute between the premier and Alaska Governor

Walter Hickel over the Prince Rupert-Kelsey Bay British Columbia service.

"It did very little from a public relations standpoint, between B.C. and Alaska," he told a service club here.

Alaska subsequently initiated its own ferry service south when Mr. Bennett announced the B.C. service would not resume until March 28.

The Alaska service runs to Seattle.

The B.C. ferry was damaged when it ran aground in fog near Alert Bay last August.

"Despite the boorish attitude taken by the premier in refusing to put the Queen back into service... the main concern now is to concentrate on future transportation needs of the area," Mr. Murray said.

He called for lower winter fares on ferries, joint ferry travel promotion with Alaska, and a speedup in building highway links in northern areas of the province to develop year-round coastal ferry traffic.

Hoffman

Insanity Rider Attached To Not Guilty Verdict

BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP) — A Saskatchewan farm laborer was found not guilty by reason of insanity Thursday on two charges of non-capital murder arising from the rifle slaying of nine members of a farm family at Shell Lake, Sask., last Aug. 15.

Victor Ernest Hoffman, 21, of Leask, Sask., was committed to the correctional institution at Prince Albert, Sask., 60 miles east of Shell Lake, to await a cabinet decision. The order by Mr. Justice M. A. MacPherson of Court of Queen's Bench means he can be released only at the discretion of the provincial government.

SIX DAYS LATER

Hoffman was charged Aug. 21, six days after James Peterson, 47, his wife Evelyn, 42, and seven of their children were shot in their farm home. He was charged only in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson.

Hoffman, who had been released from a mental institution about three weeks before the slayings, showed no emotion when the all-male jury announced its verdict after deliberating 3½ hours and Mr. Justice MacPherson ordered his committal.

Mr. Justice MacPherson told the Queen's Bench Court jury there "is no real conflict of evidence" and the jury "is not concerned with the credibility of witnesses."

"There is no evidence before you of any eyewitnesses. What you have here is a circumstantial case."

He said the defence of insanity must be applied only to the defendant's state of mind when the acts were committed and that the Criminal Code says "no person can be convicted of an offence committed when he was insane. There was a 'critically brief time element' between the death of Mr.

Peterson, the first to be shot, and Mrs. Peterson, the last. He said "somewhere between eight to 10 minutes" would have elapsed.

Defence counsel Ted Noble said the jury would "search the Crown's evidence in vain to find out why the horrifying event of that day took place."

There could be no rational answer except that "the accused was insane, completely insane."

'Radical' Hellyer Running

By RON COLLISTER
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Paul Hellyer, the stormy architect of armed forces unification, is seeking the leadership of the Liberal party. (See also Page 12).

Hellyer, 44, threw his hat into the ring at a news conference here Thursday, before heading towards Toronto and the formal, noisy kickoff of the campaign.

GENUINE ARTICLE

He called himself a genuine reformer, more radical than most people believed, and expressed confidence about the outcome.

He also admitted that unification of the armed forces has left its scars.

As he entered the race, one of the three top contenders, he dangled a few plump carrots before the provinces, which will do him no harm politically.

RADICAL VIEW

For example, he urged the government to look at the provincial point of view on medicare.

This is considered political heresy here. The government through Prime Minister Pearson and at least two of Hellyer's rivals, Finance Minister Mit-

Paris Warns Neighbors

PARIS (AP) — Premier Georges Pompidou said Thursday night that if France's Common Market partners balk at applying agriculture regulations favorable to France, the French could wreck the economic community.

"If our partners did not want to apply the rules on agriculture it is very evident that we would be heading for a very grave crisis in the community and perhaps rupture," Pompidou said.

Idled Hangman Calls Penalty Change Foolishness

By SCOTT BUTTON

TORONTO (CP) — The federal government's decision to abolish the death penalty except for the murder of a policeman or prison guard doesn't sit well with the official executioner.

"It's all foolishness," the hangman said Thursday.

The hangman, whose identity is a closely-guarded secret, said in an interview with The Canadian Press from an undisclosed location that he is a firm believer in capital punishment.

He said his occupation does not lead to insomnia because "I believe in it."

Seventeen years ago, he became Canada's only hangman after he was selected by a "late sheriff." He declined to identify the sheriff.

The hangman, who says he is reluctant to give interviews, lives on the border of Ontario and another province.

He is married and has children, but would not say how many.

His family is not aware that he "moonlights" as a hangman because his regular occupation requires travelling and serves as a cover-up. He would not give his other occupation.

He said he was born in Canada even though he spoke with a slight Scottish accent. He said he could not estimate the number of persons he has hanged. He is paid by retainer, not by assignment.

He was asked how much. "Did I ask you how much you are paid?" he snapped.

He learned his trade from a "previous hangman" and has had thorough training in human anatomy.

His victims die quickly and painlessly, he said. Sometimes the executioner and the condemned chat a little before getting down to business.

"I talk with them about whatever they want to talk about. They must start the conversation."

He will stay on the job "as long as it's required."

Because he is afraid of reprisals he carries a firearm. Childhood friends of a person about to be hanged once attacked him, he said.

A religious man, he said he attends church "quite regularly."

In an earlier interview he also vigorously defended capital punishment.

"There are so many people that are unemployed that just don't want to work. I contend that if a man is a born bum, if capital punishment is abolished, all he has to do is shoot someone in the street. He is sentenced to life with three meals per day in a warm room, and has a bed, and that is more than what a bum wants."
